Nike Supports UNC Athletics

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Nike Inc. signed a new 10-year contract for Nike to be the exclusive supplier of athletic footwear, apparel and accessory products to the Tar Heels effective July 1, 2008. Nike will provide the athletic department with shoes, uniforms, coaching gear, balls and other equipment. In addition to the apparel and equipment, which constitutes the majority of the value of the contract, Nike will give the University $2 million to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund. Chancellor Holden Thorp says he will direct the funds to faculty support. Nike will also provide support for team tours, travel and hosting regular-season tournaments in several sports. The athletic department will also receive $1 million for signing the contract, with those funds being used to overhaul lighting and sound at the Dean E. Smith Center.

Coming off one of the most exciting seasons in North Carolina women's soccer history, the 2009 Tar Heel squad returns a wealth of talent and depth, qualities which should allow the team to be among the nation's best units again in the coming campaign. The Tar Heels are the unanimous choice to win the Atlantic Coast Conference championship in 2009 for the fifth straight year and they are ranked No. 1 in the pre-season polls issued by the NSCAA and Soccer America.

A year ago, the Tar Heels finished 25-1-2 overall and 9-0-1 in the ACC. After starting the season 4-1-1 with a loss to Notre Dame and a tie at Stanford (both teams eventually advanced to the College Cup), head coach Anson Dorrance's troops went on an end-of-the-year 22-match unbeaten spell. During that span UNC was 21-0-1 with a regular-season overtime 2-2 tie with Florida State being the only blemish on the ledger. Carolina finished the season on a 10-match winning streak, a skein including three wins in the ACC Tournament and six successive wins in the NCAA Tournament. In the process, UNC claimed its 19th ACC Tournament championship and its 19th NCAA Tournament title. Throw in the 1987 ACC title (which was decided on the basis of the regular season standings) and the 1981 AIAW national title (which came a year before the first NCAA Tournament was sanctioned) and Carolina has a nice even number of 20 championships each – 20 conference titles and 20 national titles.

Knock on wood, coach Anson Dorrance was pleased that the team returned for fall practice in early August in outstanding physical shape from a conditioning viewpoint. In addition, with the exception of one player who is redshirting this year because of illness, all of the players who were key components of the playing rotation in 2008 save those that graduated are back, for the most part healthy and ready to hit the pitch.

Brittani Bartok was named to the ACC's All-Freshman Team in 2008. She had four goals and seven assists while playing in 23 games as a frosh.

Whitney Engen moved from forward to the defense in 2008 and led the Tar Heels in minutes played with 2,518.

Overall, seven players who lettered in 2008 are not with the team this year. Three were starters. Center attacking midfielder Yael Averbuch and wing midfielder Allie Long were both seniors a year ago and both started all 28 games in the run to the national championship. They were the team's fourth and fifth-leading scorers, respectively. Senior goalkeeper Anna Rodenbough also graduated. A four-year veteran of starting in the goal, the past two years she and rising senior Ashlyn Harris had alternated starting assignments and halves played in each game. A year ago, Rodenbough started 15 of 28 games and she played 1,284 minutes while Harris played 1,233 minutes while starting 13 times. Reserve forward Mandy Moraca also graduated and rising sophomore Rachel Wood, a center midfielder who showed great improvement during the course of 2008 and was a key player by season's end, will redshirt due to illness and return to school in January 2010.

Overall, Carolina will return 22 letter winners who lettered on the 2008 national championship team while adding seven true freshmen and welcoming back three players who redshirted a season ago. Despite the graduation losses, Carolina returns what equates to a complete starting 11 on the pitch as a pair of midfielders – Nikki Washington and Meghan Klingenberg – did not end '08 as starters. Both players were with the U.S. U20 Team at last year's World Cup in South America, winning a gold medal on the same day the Tar Heels were winning the national championship game over Notre Dame.

A Soccer America first-team freshman All-American in 2008, Courtney Jones was UNC's second leading scorer last year with 13 goals and three assists.

Junior Ali Hawkins' return to the lineup last year in the playmaking center midfield position proved to be a key personnel addition in UNC's run to the national championship.

The Tar Heels will have incredible depth in their front line in 2009. All three starters from a year ago return to the team and Carolina can dig deep into its bench to back up those players. The returning starters are 2008 National Player of the Year Casey Nogueira, sophomore Courtney Jones and junior Jessica McDonald. The trio started 28, 27 and 17 games respectively last season. Nogueira had one of the most distinguished seasons in UNC history, winning the Mary Garber Award as the outstanding female athlete in the ACC. She won five of the six national player of the year awards last year and was the ACC's Offensive Player of the Year, the MVP of the ACC Tournament and the MOP on offense of the College Cup. Nogueira led the nation in goals scored with 25, the most goals scored by a Tar Heel since Meredith Florance had 26 while playing on the 2000 national championship team.

Nogueira led the team in points with 58 and her eight assists made her the seventh Tar Heel a year ago to have at least eight assists. She was joined on the front line last year by Jones, a Soccer America freshman All-America from California, who was Carolina's second-leading scorer with 13 goals and three assists for 29 points. McDonald was the third starter on offense as the Arizona native started 17 games after joining the team in mid-September. Her 10 assists led the team and she also had five goals for 20 points overall.

Carolina's depth up top goes very deep into the 32-woman roster. Three sophomores – Brittani Bartok, Merritt Mathias and Emmalie Pfankuch – all saw significant time last year. Bartok was a Freshman All-ACC selection (along with Jones) and she finished with four goals and seven assists for 15 points. Mathias played in 20 games and had three goals and Pfankuch played in 26 games and had two goals and two assists. Pfankuch also saw time on defense last year and she will play both positions again this year.

Other returnees at the forward spot are fifth-year senior Sterling Smith of Chapel Hill, seniors Ashley Moore and Caroline Boneparth, both from New York, and junior Attacking center midfielder Meghan Klingenberg is one of two Tar Heels who played on the U.S. squad which won the U20 World Championship last December.

Katie Klimczak of suburban Chicago. Freshman Alyssa Rich of Cincinnati is expected to see significant reserve time at any of the seven attacking positions at forward and in the midfield. Freshman Megan Brigman, a North Carolina native with great speed, is also in the mix at forward.

With the return of Washington and Klingenberg, UNC's starting midfield is set. National Team member and 2008 Olympic gold medalist Tobin Heath will be back for her fourth year as the starter at left midfield and Washington, who will also be in her fourth year as a starter, will return to the right midfield spot she played full-time as a freshman, taking over for Long, who started 27 games there last year. Klingenberg will take over for Averbuch at the attacking center midfield position. Ali Hawkins will be in her third year as the starter at playmaking center midfield (she missed '07 with an ACL injury).

Heath had her most productive scoring season as a Tar Heel last year, finishing third on the team with 24 points on eight goals and eight assists. Washington played in 20 games last year and was seventh on the team in points with 19 on five goals and nine assists. Klingenberg had 13 points in her 20 games last season and her nine assists were tied for second on the team behind McDonald's 10. Hawkins became a true dual defensive and offensive threat last year and she added 12 points on three goals and six assists. She had the game-winning goal against Texas A&M in the NCAA quarterfinals last season.

Leading the depth at midfield will be freshman Amber Brooks from Pennsylvania. She could play either in the flat back three defense or spell Hawkins at playmaking center midfield. She is the true freshman most likely to earn a starting spot if injury sidelines a Tar Heel veteran. Returning after a year's absence is redshirt sophomore Erin Mikula. She tore her ACL in the sixth game of last year against Stanford and missed the rest of the campaign. At the time she was Hawkins' main backup at playmaking center midfield.

Redshirt freshman Kim Currie and true freshman Raneer Premji will be in the mix to back up Klingenberg at the attacking center midfield spot. Freshman Alyssa Rich will be in the mix for playing time in the midfield and the Tar Heels will also have redshirt sophomore Maria Lubrano and true freshman Kristine Welsh-Loveman to provide further depth.

Carolina's flat back three defensive starting unit returns intact with seniors Whitney Engen and Kristi Eveland and junior Rachel Givan providing UNC with possibly the most experienced defensive unit in the nation. Engen, Eveland and Givan led the team in minutes played last year with 2518, 2435 and 2322, respectively. They played virtually every minute together on the back line in the final 10 games of the 2008 season as the Tar Heels won all 10 contests, recording eight shutouts (of the 17 on the entire campaign) and allowed only single goals to Texas A&M and Notre Dame during that span. In both games, UNC rallied for victories over the Aggies and Fighting Irish.

Engen played her first two years at forward before moving to the center back last year. Dorrance says she has the potential to be the best center back in UNC history. Eveland's tenacity as a four-year starter at right back is unquestioned. She is one of the nation's most underrated defenders and she has played more minutes than any one else on the team the past three years. Givan played mainly in the midfield as a freshman but was switched to left back last year as the Carolina defense adjusted to having two new starters quite nicely. Carolina allowed five goals in the first six games of 2008. But after the combination of Eveland-Engen-Givan came together and started 22 games in a row to finish the season the defense clamped down and allowed only 11 goals the rest of the way. In those 22 games, UNC posted 15 shutout wins.

If the Tar Heels need to look to the bench, Brooks and Pfankuch are both options as is true freshman Lucy Bronze from England. Bronze is considered to have the potential to start for Carolina as soon as her sophomore year. Junior Katie Lutz will also figure in the mix on defense.

Ashlyn Harris returns as the starting goalie as a fifth-year player with plenty of ACC and post-season experience. Freshman Hannah Daly of Nevada will likely be the No. 1 backup while juniors Amanda Tucker and Monica Welsh-Loveman are both experienced keepers.

Tobin Heath is one of three Tar Heels named to the preseason watch list for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy.

2008 UNC Women's Soccer Core Values

TOUGH: From George Bernard Shaw: "... be a force of fortune instead of a feverish, selfish little clod of ailments and grievances complaining that the world will not devote itself to making you happy." Funded by Dwight Anderson; Exemplified by Whitney Engen, Casey Nogueira, Tobin Heath.

DISCIPLINED: From Henry Adams; Theodore Rex – Desmond Morris: "Roosevelt ... showed the singular primitive quality that belongs to ultimate matter ... 'he was pure act'." Exemplified by Yael Averbuch, Ali Hawkins, Casey Nogueira.

FOCUSED: From Reynolds Price: "College is about books. This will almost certainly be the last time in your life when other people bear the expense of awarding you four years of financially unburdened time." Funded by Marjorie and Walter Buckley; Exemplified by Ali Hawkins, Anna Rodenbough, Yael Averbuch.

RELENTLESS: From Thomas Buxton – Philanthropist: "The difference between one person and another, between the weak and the powerful, the great and the insignificant, is energy – invisible determination." Funded by Munroe and Becky Cobey; Exemplified by Whitney Engen, Yael Averbuch, Ali Hawkins.

RESILIENT: From Jason Elliot; An Unexpected Light: Travels in Afghanistan: "What an extraordinary place of liberties the West really is ... exempt from ... a traditional life for survival, they become spoiled and fragile like over bred dogs ... " Funded by Alston Gardner; Exemplified by Casey Nogueira, Tobin Heath, Yael Averbuch.

POSITIVE: From Viktor E. Frankl Man's Search for Meaning: "... everything can be taken from a man but one thing: the last of the human freedoms – to choose one's attitude in any given set of circumstances, to choose one's own way." Funded by Laszlo Birinyi; Exemplified by Casey Nogueira, Anna Rodenbough, Tobin Heath.

CLASSY: From Doug Smith, Mgr ('86): "Class is the graceful way you treat someone even when they can do nothing for you." Exemplified by Caroline Boneparth, Yael Averbuch, Ali Hawkins.

CARING: From John Donne; For Whom the Bell Tolls: "No man is an island, entire of itself ... any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind, and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee." Funded by Keath Castelleo-Low; Exemplified by Caroline Boneparth, Tobin Heath, Ali Hawkins.

NOBLE: From Viktor E. Frankl Man's Search for Meaning: "If there is a meaning in life at all, then there must be a meaning in suffering." Exemplified by Caroline Boneparth.

SELFLESS: From Note given to Coach Dorrance by Raket Karvelsson (UNC '98): "People don't care how much you know until they know how much you care." Exemplified by Whitney Engen, Ali Hawkins, Yael Averbuch.

GALVANIZING: From William Damon; Greater Expectations: "Not long ago, to 'believe in yourself' meant taking a principled, and often lonely, stand when it appeared difficult or dangerous to do so." Funded by Bill Rogers; Exemplified by Ali Hawkins, Ashlyn Harris, Whitney Engen.

GRATEFUL: From Gregg Easterbrook, The Progress Paradox: "Finally there is the question of whether we have a duty to feel grateful. Hundreds of generations who came before us lived dire, short lives ... and did so partly motivated by the dream that someday there would be men and women who lived long lives ... without fear of an approaching storm." Exemplified by Tobin Heath, Casey Nogueira, Whitney Engen.

Kenan Charitable Trust Gives $1 Million Endowment to Carolina Women's Soccer Program to Honor Braxton Schell

Trustees of the William R. Kenan, Jr. Charitable Trust announced a gift of $1 million dollars to help endow scholarships and the operating budget of the University's women's soccer program in 2007. Dr. Richard M. Krasno, executive director of the Trust, made the announcement. The endowment was made in the name of William R. Kenan, Jr., in honor of the late Braxton Schell, an attorney in Greensboro, N.C., and Carolin alumnus.

Braxton Schell

"The William R. Kenan, Jr. Charitable Trust was delighted to make this grant for two reasons. First, it enabled us to honor Braxton Schell, who was a staunch supporter of women's soccer at Carolina for decades and an important figure in the evolution and administration of many of the Kenan philanthropies," explained Krasno. "Second, the grant provides a way for us to honor an athletic program that has not only been phenomenally successful on the playing field; but also a model of the best that college sports can offer to its participants, fans and alumni. We hope that our gift will enable the women's soccer program to thrive and continue to demonstrate that all college athletic programs can be a source of pride and excitement to the UNC-Chapel Hill community."

Schell was a long-time fan and supporter of the UNC women's soccer program and he served as an attorney for the William R. Kenan, Jr. Funds. Schell regularly attended the team's games and traveled with the team on overseas exhibition tours as well. He was a partner in the law firm Schell, Bray, Aycok, Abel & Livingston PLLC in Greensboro, N.C. Schell was a 1948 Phi Beta Kappa alumnus of Carolina with a Bachelor of Science degree and he received his Juris Doctor degree with honors in 1951. Schell served as the Associate Editor of the North Carolina Law Review and was a Life Fellow of the American Bar Foundation. He was listed in "Best Lawyers in America" for corporate law practice for over 25 years and was named as a member of Business North Carolina's Legal Elite.

"It is not an overstatement to say that Braxton Schell was Carolina women's soccer most diehard fan. He supported women's soccer here since the early days of what is now a true dynasty," said former UNC-Chapel Hill Chancellor James Moeser. "Brax was a great friend and active volunteer for the University, so it's wonderfully appropriate for the Kenan Trust to honor him in this way."

The endowment goes to help fund annual scholarships for women's soccer at Carolina as well as benefiting the operating budget of the program in order to maintain the program at the highest level.

"The gift from the Kenan Trust means so much to the University and particularly to the women's soccer program. I think it speaks volumes as to the pride this University and the benefactors of UNC feel about not only the success of the women's soccer program but also the way in which Anson Dorrance and his staff have conducted themselves in building and maintaining a championship program," said Tar Heel Director of Athletics Dick Baddour.

"We are overwhelmed and so appreciative of the Kenan Charitable Trust for this remarkable gift," said UNC head coach Anson Dorrance. "We are all incredibly humbled with the size of the gift and honored with the rationale. Thank you on behalf of my staff and all the extraordinary young women who like me wear the Carolina Blue with undying loyalty and pride and have tried to show that every year."

The 2008 season was another for the history books for the University of North Carolina's esteemed women's soccer program as head coach Anson Dorrance's team went undefeated over the final 22 games of the season en route to winning the school's 19th NCAA championship and its 20th national title overall in the sport.

Led by an explosive offense which scored at a 3.18 goals per game clip and a stingy defense which yielded only 0.57 goals per contest, the Tar Heels finished with a 25-1-2 record overall and a mark of 9-0-1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference. When the season ended on December 7 with a come-from-behind 2-1 victory over Notre Dame in the NCAA championship match the numbers once again told the story of the incredible accomplishments of UNC's program.

With a 9-0-1 record in ACC regular-season play, UNC finished first in the conference standings for the 19th time in the 22 years of ACC competition. Carolina then posted three shutouts in the 2008 ACC Tournament, beating Miami 1-0 in the quarterfinals, Boston College 2-0 in the semifinals and Virginia Tech 3-0 in the championship game. In the process Carolina won the ACC Tournament championship for the 19th time in the 21-year history of the championship.

Carolina, which finished fourth in the final NSCAA coaches poll, was one of the top four seeds in the NCAA Tournament along with top-ranked Notre Dame, second-ranked UCLA and fifth-ranked Stanford all four of those seeds reached the Women's College Cup in Cary, N.C. on December 5 and 7. The four teams in the semifinals had combined for a total of two losses heading into championship weekend with Notre Dame and UCLA undefeated and Carolina and Stanford having lost in the regular season to Notre Dame and UCLA, respectively.

The Tar Heels opened the NCAA Tournament on the night of November 14 at Fetzer Field in a driving rainstorm against Southern Conference champion Western Carolina. The Tar Heels eased their way to a 5-0 victory with every player in uniform playing a minimum of 19 minutes. Having made liberal use of his bench personnel on that Friday, Carolina was well rested for the second round game against Atlantic 10 Conference champion Charlotte on Sunday, Nov. 16. The 49ers, who had lost to Carolina 5-1 in the season opener on August 22, headed into its match against the Tar Heels on a 15-match winning streak. In one of Carolina's best defensive efforts of the season, the Tar Heels limited the 49ers to only two shots in the game while UNC peppered the Charlotte goal with 29 of its own. After freshman Rachel Wood scored on a rebound in the 34th minute, fellow freshman Courtney Jones took over the game in the first six minutes of the second half. She scored on a breakaway at 46:21 and then added a goal on a header off a free kick at 50:13 to give the Tar Heels an insurmountable lead.

Carolina drew Illinois in the third round of the tournament, offering up a coaching matchup between Dorrance and one of his former pupils at UNC, Janet Rayfield, who played on Carolina's first four varsity teams from 1979-82 and still ranks as one of the University's all-time leading scorers. The third round game was played on November 22, a bitter cold Saturday in Chapel Hill with temperatures in the 30s. The Tar Heels were the recipients of a breakdown in the Fighting Illini defense that led to an own goal in the 32nd minute, giving the Tar Heels a 1-0 lead. Carolina then salted away the win with a pair of goals scored just 1:23 apart midway through the second half. Rachel Wood scored her second goal in two games at the 64:43 mark to make it 2-0 and then Casey Nogueira tallied at 66:06 to secure the separation the Tar Heels sought.

UNC then matched up with Texas A&M in the NCAA quarterfinals for the third time since 2002 when the two teams met at Fetzer Field November 28, the Friday after Thanksgiving, before a crowd of 2,686 fans. Each of the previous five games in the series had been decided by a single goal including a 3-2 win by the Tar Heels in College Station, Texas on August 29. The NCAA quarterfinal match would prove to be another barnburner between the two sides. The Aggies looked well placed to pull off the upset and earn their first ever College Cup berth when Laura Grace Robinson pounced on a through ball to score in the 81st minute.

Just over a minute later the Tar Heels gained the equalizer after a foul on the Aggies.

Ali Hawkins sent a precise free kick into the box and Allie Long sent a header that was saved by the fingertips of A&M keeper Kelly Dyer. The ball glanced off the cross bar and caromed directly to Courtney Jones who was unmarked in front of the left side of the goal line. Jones nodded the ball home for the tying goal at 81:49. Neither team scored in the first overtime period before the Heels earned a corner kick less than a minute into the second 10-minute extra session. Yael Averbuch sent a perfect corner to Ali Hawkins, whose initial shot was blocked by a defender. Jessica McDonald was able to tap the ball back to Hawkins and the Aggies' Rachel Shipley saved her second shot off the goal line at the last instant. Shipley's clearance went directly to Whitney Engen on the left side of the box. Engen made eye contact with Hawkins, nodded the ball down to Hawkins' feet and Hawkins then sent a shot into the lower left corner for the winning strike at the 101:26 mark.

The win over A&M sent the Tar Heels to the College Cup for the 22nd time in the 27-year history of the tournament where they would meet up with undefeated UCLA on a cold, clear night December 5 at WakeMed Soccer Park in Cary, N.C. After watching undefeated and untied Notre Dame punch its ticket to the championship match with a 1-0 win over Stanford, Carolina and UCLA played toe-to-toe for the full 90 minutes with little separating the two teams. In the 41st minute, however, Brittani Bartok was taken down from behind in the box and the Tar Heels earned their first penalty kick attempt of the season. Senior Yael Averbuch stepped up and sent a laser just inside the right post to the Heels a 1-0 lead at 40:14. UCLA goalkeeper Ashley Thompson guessed correctly on the shot and made a valiant effort to save it but Averbuch's shot was hit with too much pace to be stopped. The Tar Heels held the 1-0 lead the rest of the way with goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris making three saves in the second half to keep the Bruins off the scoreboard.

After having lost to Notre Dame in its previous two meetings, the fourth-ranked Tar Heels met the 26-0 and top-ranked Fighting Irish in the NCAA championship game two days later. Notre Dame was shooting for its third NCAA title and was seeking to become the only team other than Carolina to finish a season unbeaten and untied in NCAA history. Carolina was looking for its 19th NCAA title and its 100th NCAA Tournament victory, heading into the game with a 99-7-1 all-time mark in tournament play.

The battle of the titans did not disappoint as a crowd of 7,102 saw Notre Dame score just 16 seconds into the match on a goal by Kerri Hanks. After the shaky start, UNC outshot the Irish 18-6 the rest of the way and rallied to win on a pair of goals by junior forward Casey Nogueira, who went on to win five national player of the year awards. Nogueira, the nation's leading goal scorer, tied the game with her 24th goal on a free kick from 23 yards out at the 51:08 mark after Jessica McDonald had been tripped up just outside the penalty area. The match remained tied until Nogueira notched her 25th goal of the season with just 2:06 to play. Nogueira dribbled into the left side of the box and had the option of shooting or crossing. Her strike went on an arc from the left side over Notre Dame keeper Kelsey Lysander and into the far side netting for the game-winner. The win boosted the Tar Heels to a final record of 25-1-2 and marked the ninth time in school history UNC had finished with at least 25 wins in a season.

SOME KEY NOTES ABOUT THE 2008 SEASON

- Casey Nogueira's two second-half goals, including the game-winner with just 2:06 to play, lifted North Carolina to its 20th overall national championship and its 19th NCAA title as Carolina upset top-ranked and undefeated Notre Dame 2-1 in the NCAA final.
- After starting the season 4-1-1, North Carolina went 21-0-1 in its final 22 games en route to winning the national championship.
- With its title game win, North Carolina now owns a 100-7-1 record in NCAA Tournament play.
- Carolina reached the College Cup for the 24th time in the 27-year history of the tournament.
- Carolina emerged from a College Cup field which included the No. 1 seeds from all four brackets. UNC also knocked off an undefeated team in the semifinals, beating UCLA 1-0.
- UNC avenged its two most recent defeats in winning the NCAA final. UNC dropped a 3-2 decision to the Fighting Irish in the 2007 NCAA quarterfinals at Fetzer Field and then lost 1-0 when the two teams met in Chapel Hill early in the 2008 season.
- After the early-season loss to Notre Dame, Carolina ended the season on a 24-match unbeaten streak.
- Casey Nogueira was the consensus National Player of the Year Award winner as she won five of the six awards and finished runnerup for the 2008 M.A.C. Hermann Trophy. Among her awards were the Honda Soccer Award, the Soccer America National Player of the Year accolade and top player honors from Soccer Buzz.
- Nogueira led the nation in both goals scored with 25 and in points with 58.
- Yael Averbuch was named the ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America of the Year for women's soccer. She and Kristi Eveland were both named first-team academic All-Americans.
- Averbuch started an NCAA record 105 successive games in her career, never missing a game in her four years. She was just two games short of the NCAA record for most games played in a career which is 107 set by Robin Confer from 1994-97.
- Carolina has now won 673 games in 30 seasons, an average of 22.43 per season.

Ridgeland, Miss.
(Ridgeland)

General: A two-year returning starter for the Tar Heels...started last season at the left back position and did a remarkable job in UNC's national championship run...had never been a starter on defense in her soccer career prior to making the switch in spring practice in 2008...started in the midfield the first half of her freshman year before injuries cut down on her playing time the second half of the campaign...

National Team & Regional ODP Experience: Garnered tremendous experience on U.S. youth national teams...in 2007 she was promoted to the pool for the U20 national team, playing in England with the team in May 2007...was a member of the U17 national team in 2005 and the U16 national team in 2004...named to the U19 Region III team in 2005, 2006 and 2007...in the Mississippi '88 ODP program she was elevated to the state team four years in a row...named to the Region III ODP team four years.

Club Soccer: Beginning in 2001 she played for the Mississippi United and Mississippi Fire 88 club teams...was a member of the 2005 U.S. adidas Cup title-winning team...captain of her club team...led Mississippi Fire to the USYSA Region III finals in 2005...the team also won five state championships and two Premier league crowns.

Sophomore Season (2008): Tied the school record for games played in a season with 28...started 22 games, including the season opener against Charlotte and then the last 21 of the season in succession...made a brilliant transition from playing forward in high school to playing in the midfield at Carolina her freshman year to then taking over the starting left back spot in UNC's flat back three defensive scheme as a junior...took over the position vacated by Ariel Harris after she graduated in 2007...Givan played 2,322 minutes which was the third highest total on the team...she played the final 1,121 minutes of the season without

Freshman season (2007): Finished the season with one goal and two assists...appeared in 21 games, generally in the midfield, starting 11 games... picked up her first career assist against No. 14 Boston College on the game-winning golden goal by Meghan Klingenberg... scored her first career goal against High Point in the opening round of the NCAA tournament...also assisted on a goal against Clemson in the ACC Tournament quarterfinals.

Prep: As a prepster, she was a brilliant striker who was Mississippi's three-time selection as the Gatorade Player of the Year... a two-time Parade Magazine All-America selection and NSCAA high school All-America in 2005 and 2006...NSCAA Youth soccer All-America 2004-06...the Mississippi House of Representatives honored her with a resolution commending her play in 2007...graduated from Ridgeland High School on May 21, 2007...scored 165 goals in her RHS career...was elected to Ridgeland High School's athletic Hall of Fame...played on high school soccer team beginning in the eighth grade...Ridgeland's first year as a high school was 2003 and it won the state soccer championship that year, going on to win four more when she was a student there...also ran track in 2004 on a state championship team...was first high school student ever named the Jackson Clarion Ledger's Co-Sports Person of the Year when she was so honored in 2006, joining past winners Walter Payton and Jerry Rice...the Jackson Clarion Ledger's two-time state player of the year...was named first-team All-State five successive years 2003-07...three-time 4A state player of the year...squad's captain as junior and senior...Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame Pop Star Award winner in 2005...a Wendy's high school Heisman nominee in 2006...2007 Mississippi Association of Coaches All-Star.

Personal: Full name is Rachel Renee Givan...daughter of Dr. Donald "Keith" and Teresa Givan...born June 29, 1988 in Flowood, Miss. ...has two sisters, Ginny, age 22, and Kelsey, age 18.

Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...Carolina's First Shootout Win:

In its long history, Carolina has only been involved in four matches that have gone to penalty kicks either to determine a tournament champion or to determine which team advanced in a tournament to the next round of play. UNC lost the first three shootouts — in 1988 by a 4-3 count to NC State in the ACC Tournament championship game in Raleigh, N.C., in 2004 by a 5-4 count to Virginia in the ACC Tournament championship game in Cary, N.C., in 2005 by a 5-4 count to Florida State in the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals at Fetzer Field — before UNC defeated Virginia 4-2 on penalty kicks in the semifinals of the 2007 ACC Tournament at Lake Buena Vista, Fla. Converting the successful penalty kicks in that game were Yael Averbuch, Jaime Gilbert, Maria Lubrano and Meghan Klingenberg.

Anson Dorrance
Head Coach

www.TarHeelBlue.com

When Anson Dorrance was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame on August 2, 2008, it marked one more milestone moment in the career of a man whose coaching prowess became legendary at a young age. Because Dorrance has not yet retired from his coaching career, he was only eligible for election on the "Builders of the Game" ballot and he won election to the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility on that ballot.

Like fine wine — with age — the coaching career of Anson Dorrance only gets better. Dorrance proved that again last year as he led his team successfully through the most competitive College Cup field in history as the University of North Carolina won its 20th national title.

Head coach of the North Carolina women's soccer program since its inception in 1979, Dorrance has built and guided a well-oiled winning machine. Under his direction, the Tar Heels have collected national and conference championships at a stupendous rate, compiled an overall record staggering in its numerical verity, established records likely never to be approached and procured the respect befitting a dynasty.

At an institution familiar with such incomparable achievement, especially with regard to its storied basketball program, it might be possible to think that Dorrance's accomplishments could somehow fade to the background. But what he has done in Chapel Hill is simply impossible to ignore.

Thus, when an expert panel employed by ESPN announced its list of the Best Coaches of the Past Quarter Century on July 28, 2004 — coincidentally headed at the No. 1 spot by legendary Carolina basketball coach Dean Smith — it came as no big surprise that another deserving Tar Heel mentor made the list.

That Dorrance, who was ranked No. 24 on the list, was one of only two coaches in the prestigious collection to coach an Olympic sport on the collegiate level only speaks louder about his recognized greatness.

More accolades were bestowed on Dorrance with his induction into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame on May 19, 2005 and to the National Soccer Hall of Fame on August 2, 2008. He earned those honors while still in the prime of his coaching career, further testament to his Dorrance was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame in August 2008 and then promptly led his team to its 20th national championship the following December.

DORRANCE DATA

Head Coach Anson Dorrance is now in his 31st season as the Tar Heel head coach. His teams have an all-time record of 673-33-21 (.940). Under Dorrance, UNC has won 20 national championships, including 19 NCAA crowns and one AIAW title, 19 regular-season ACC titles and 19 ACC Tournament championships. During his tenure, Dorrance's teams are 132-7-4 in ACC regular-season games, 54-0-3 in ACC Tournament matches and 100-7-1 in NCAA Tournament games.

ongoing legacy.

As Dorrance prepares to begin his 31st season as the head women's soccer coach at Carolina, even he must be wondering if there is anything left to be accomplished. Chances are excellent that he will find something.

Fitting Accolades From Basketball's Winningest Coach

It is said that greatness recognizes greatness.

Perhaps there is no better example of that than the quote Dean Smith gave Football News Magazine in 1997. Smith was asked by Football News about Carolina's preseason No. 1 ranking in football and what it was like for some sport other than basketball to be ranked No. 1.

Coach Smith's reply? "This is a women's soccer school. We're just trying to keep up with them." Coach Smith's clever retort was his way to give Dorrance his due.

From the person who was then the winningest head coach of all-time in one sport to the winningest head coach of all-time in another sport, the comment struck Dorrance as the ultimate honor. As Dorrance has said, "So much of what we have tried to do in our program is modeled after what Dean Smith has done and accomplished. To have our program compared favorably to his by the man himself is enormously humbling."

Similarly, Dorrance's immense loyalty to Carolina mirrors the loyalty Smith possessed for his adopted school. In 1994, when Dorrance decided not to continue his duties as the head coach of the U.S. Women's National Team, the choice perplexed many.

Some thought he relinquished the honor in order to avoid the pressure that comes with being the leader of what was then the defending World Cup championship squad. But Dorrance's decision had everything to do with loyalty.

The glory that came with coaching the U.S. to the championship in the first-ever Women's World Cup in 1991 was not enough to pull Dorrance away from his true professional love — working full-time with the Tar Heels. He wanted to increase the level of excellence that soccer fans had come to expect from the record-shattering program he had molded. To do that Dorrance knew he would have to dedicate all of his coaching energy to the University. With more elite-level players emerging from high school and club teams than ever before, the playing field in the college game was leveling out; Dorrance knew that for UNC to remain at the top, he would have to throw himself into the process with re-

"College programs like ours require a lot of work," says Dorrance. "At that point in time we had been surviving by just doing the minimum amount of work. We certainly couldn't continue to be successful by doing just the minimum. We needed the extra time to stay competitive in an increasingly tough college game."

A prime example of what Dorrance meant about a leveling playing field is the fact UNC has captured only five of the past 11 NCAA championships from 1998-2008 when compared to the era from 1982 through 1997 when Carolina dominated the competition, winning 14 of 16 titles.

Simply Staggering Numbers

It is difficult to comprehend Dorrance taking Carolina's women's program to any greater heights than what they have already achieved. Yet, for a program consumed with striving for excellence, that remains the goal.

It is this relentless attitude that has helped the Tar Heels win a mindblowing 20 of the 28 national championships that have been decided in the history of collegiate women's soccer. Only two other schools in the country have won as many as two titles — Portland in 2002 and 2005 and Notre Dame in 1995 and 2004. Carolina has also captured 19 of the 21 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championships since the sport was given title status by the league in 1988, with its only two runner-up finishes coming after failing to prevail in penalty kick shootouts after overtime ties in 1988 and 2004, both in tournament championship contests. UNC also won the initial 1987 ACC title when it was held in a round-robin format at the end of the regular season to determine the champion.

All told, the Tar Heels are 673-33-21 in the 30-year history of the program, a winning percentage of .940.

When Carolina decided to make women's soccer a varsity sport in 1979, Dorrance became a two-sport head coach as he was already in his third coaching the men's team at Carolina. Dorrance's brilliance at coaching women manifested itself almost immediately as it took just three years before the Tar Heels won a national championship, capturing the 1981 Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) national title. Beginning with that championship, the Tar Heels have won 71.4 percent of the titles ever decided in the sport.

Carolina went on to claim three more national titles in a row after the NCAA began sponsorship of the sport in the fall of 1982. UNC netted NCAA championship game wins in 1982 over Central Florida, in 1983 over George Mason and in 1984 over Connecticut. The Tar Heels made it to the NCAA title game in 1985, but lost to George Mason 2-0 on the Patriots' home field – the first of only seven losses in NCAA Tournament play for Carolina to go along with 100 wins and a single tie.

A String of Nine Straight Championships

That loss to George Mason, remarkably, was the last time the Tar Heels lost any game in the decade of the 1980s. Beginning with the season opener in 1986 and continuing into the 1990 season, Dorrance's Tar Heels won 97 games and tied six matches over a stretch of 103 contests.

In 1986, Carolina defeated Colorado College 2-0 in the finals at Fairfax, Va. A year later, the Tar Heels downed Massachusetts 1-0 on the Minutewomen's home field in the title game. The 1988 campaign saw the Tar Heels defeat NC State 4-1 in the title game in Chapel Hill. A year later, Carolina defeated Colorado College 2-0 in the championship contest at Raleigh, N.C.

During this era, the Atlantic Coast Conference also began championship competition with UNC winning the inaugural title in 1987 in a round robin format. N.C. State claimed the 1988 title on a penalty kick shootout against the Tar Heels but Carolina regained the title in 1989 and has won all but one conference championship since then.

Connecticut snapped the 103-match unbeaten streak that had started in 1986 by defeating the Tar Heels 3-2 in overtime at Storrs, Conn. on September 22, 1990. The Tar Heels rebounded from that lone defeat to win their fifth straight NCAA crown in 1990, avenging the only blemish on their season by beating the Huskies in the final game 6-0 in Chapel Hill.

Tackling The Challenge of the National Team

Along the way, Dorrance's love of a challenge prompted him to take the head coaching job for the U.S. Women's National Team just a year into its existence in 1986. In a short time, Dorrance took the National Team to the vertex of the world's most popular sport. On November 30, 1991, Dorrance led the U.S. to a 2-1 win over Norway to claim the World Cup championship. The win came just six days after assistant coach Bill Palladino, acting as interim head coach, led UNC to a 3-1 NCAA title game win over Wisconsin for Carolina's sixth NCAA title in a row.

Dorrance was the architect of the World Cup triumph, a win tinged with a Carolina Blue hue. Not only was Dorrance coaching the U.S. team, but nine of the 18 players competed collegiately at North Carolina and his assistant coach was former UNC player Lauren Gregg.

The next year, Dorrance assembled what many soccer observers have labeled the best college soccer team in history. That edition of the Tar Heels finished the season undefeated at 25-0, claimed the ACC championship for the fourth straight year and won the NCAA title for the seventh consecutive time. Carolina's 9-1 NCAA championship game victory over Duke was as thorough as the final score would lead one to believe and a nonpareil way for the Heels to finish the year.

In 1993, UNC won the NCAA championship with an unsullied record of 23-0. The Tar Heels whitewashed George Mason 6-0 before a collegiate women's soccer record crowd of 5,721 fans at Fetzer Field. Mia Hamm capped her brilliant career at Carolina that day and went on to win unanimous national player of the year honors for the second year in a row.

92 Wins in a Row

Amongst all the coaching jobs that Dorrance has done during his career, the one which culminated in the 1994 NCAA championship might be the most impressive. Dorrance was able to rally the Tar Heels after arch-rival Duke ended a 101-game unbeaten streak by beating Carolina 3-2 on October 19, 1994. The loss came 17 days after Notre Dame had snapped a 92-game Carolina winning streak by playing the Heels to a scoreless tie.

UNC ran the table after the loss to Duke and NCAA Tournament wins over NC State, Duke, Connecticut and Notre Dame added a 13th national title to Dorrance's coaching resume. Tar Heel midfielder Tisha Venturini was selected as the 1994 National Player of the Year, marking the seventh straight season in which the national player of the year came from the Carolina ranks.

The 1994 season presaged a sea change in the college game. With the proliferation of available talent and the vast increase in the number of college programs, parity was quickly becoming a part of the women's game. While the Tar Heels still led the way in terms of consistent excellence, one of the big news stories of 1995 was that Carolina failed to win the national title in women's soccer for the first time in 10 years. The Tar Heels, seeded No. 1 in the NCAA bracket with a 25-0 mark, were upset by Notre Dame 1-0 in the 1995 NCAA semifinals.

Relinquishing the title to Notre Dame in 1995 only fueled the team's competitive fire the next season. Dorrance took a team that returned nine starters and molded it into another victorious unit by season's end. In the ninth game of the season, Notre Dame defeated the Tar Heels 2-1 in overtime and becoming the first college team to beat UNC in successive meetings. UNC regrouped and the Tar Heels whipped William & Mary, James Madison and Florida in the opening three rounds of the NCAA tourney before defeating Santa Clara 2-1 on its home field in the semifinals. Two days later UNC proved it was still at the acme of women's college soccer, beating defending champion Notre Dame 1-0 in overtime to claim the 1996 crown.

A Dynamite Defense in 1997

Dorrance turned in another magnificent coaching job as the Tar Heels wound up in the winner's circle again in 1997. Honored by Soccer Buzz and Soccer Times as the national coach of the year, Dorrance spearheaded a Carolina campaign which resulted in a 27-0-1 record. The 27 victories were an NCAA record and UNC tied its own NCAA record by shutting

In 1998, Carolina had another brilliant season, going 25-0 before falling 1-0 to second-seeded Florida in the NCAA championship game. Despite the disappointing end to the season, the Tar Heels outscored their opponents by a 98-7 margin and won their 10th straight ACC title.

After seeing the 1998 NCAA title elude the Tar Heels, Carolina fans were able to find solace in the performance of the U.S. team which competed in the 1999 Women's World Cup. The 20-person roster featured eight Tar Heel players — Mia Hamm, Kristine Lilly, Carla Overbeck, Cindy Parlow, Tisha Venturini, Tracy Noonan, Lorrie

Fair and Tiffany Roberts — and UNC alumna Lauren Gregg as a U.S. assistant coach. This Tar Heel-laden composition of the World Cup Team, which reclaimed the championship it had relinquished in 1995, once again stood as a testament to the indelible contributions Dorrance had made to U.S. soccer prominence.

Back-To-Back National Championships

Basking in the glow of a World Cup title featuring so many ties to the program, Carolina's collegiate dominance seemed to be in doubt when just eight games into the 1999 season the Tar Heels sported a 6-2 record. The two losses were the most in a season since 1985. But Dorrance led Carolina to 18 wins in a row and another NCAA championship. Lorrie Fair earned national player of the year accolades, but in many regards the 1999 team was a squad without star presence, just incredible unity of purpose.

A year later, the 2000 Carolina team suffered the program's most losses in a season in 20 years but again won ACC and NCAA titles. Three times in six NCAA Tournament games, Carolina trailed its opponent 1-0 midway through the second half. All three times, the Tar Heels came from behind to win 2-1 in regulation time en route to another national title.

After a two-year hiatus from the awards stand, UNC reclaimed the NCAA title in 2003 with its most dominant team in a decade. Carolina became the first team since the Tar Heels of 1993 to go undefeated and untied, finishing with a perfect 27-0 mark in winning its 15th straight ACC title and its 18th national championship. Led by co-national players of the year Lindsay Tarpley and Catherine Reddick, Carolina outscored its opponents 132-11, including an amazing 32-0 margin in six NCAA Tournament matches.

In 2006 Dorrance turned in one of the best coaching jobs of his career in piloting UNC to its 19th national championship. He was the unanimous choice as the national coach of the year after leading Carolina to a 27-1 balance sheet. The Tar Heels accomplished these heroics while starting six freshmen for most of the season. In fact, seven freshmen took the field for the start of the second half of UNC's 2-1 NCAA championship game win over Notre Dame. It was a team which lost its season opener at Texas A&M, its first setback in a lifeliner since 1983, and then stormed back to win 27 matches in succession.

In 2008, UNC captured its 20th national championship and its 20th ACC title with a team that started 4-1-1 but went 21-0-1 in its final 22 matches. Led by national player of the year Casey Nogueira, who led the nation in scoring with 25 goals, Carolina defeated two undefeated teams in the College Cup, beating UCLA 1-0 and Notre Dame 2-1, to win the NCAA title. Nogueira scored two second-half goals to rally UNC past the Fighting Irish in the final game.

Dorrance's Start In Coaching

Ironically, Dorrance's career plans did not originally include coaching a women's team. He began his coaching career at Carolina as the designated head coach for the men's team in 1976 during Marvin Allen's last year as head coach. He took over as head men's coach the following year and served for 12 years in that role, posting a 172-65-21 record. His team won the ACC Tournament championship in 1987. He took the Tar Heels to the 1987 NCAA College Cup semifinals and to the second round of the 1988 NCAA Tournament. Dorrance's .708 winning percentage is tops among Carolina's men's soccer coaches all-time and his 172 wins rank third in school history behind current UNC head mentor Elmar Bolowich, whom Dorrance brought to Carolina as an assistant men's coach in 1987, and Dr. Marvin Allen, the founder of the program in 1947, and the man who coached Dorrance at Carolina.

Since being named the women's head coach in 1979, Carolina has a 673-33-21 record under Dorrance and only three times in 30 years have the Tar Heels lost more than two games in a single season. The Tar Heels' 19 NCAA crowns are more than any other women's NCAA Division I sports program in the history, and the 20 national championships overall are more than any single sports program in ACC history, men's or women's.

A Host of National Players of the Year

Over the years, 16 different Tar Heels have been named national players of the year under Dorrance's direction — April Heinrichs in 1984 and 1986, Shannon Higgins in 1988 and 1989, Kristine Lilly in 1990 and 1991, Mia Hamm in 1992 and 1993, Tisha Venturini in 1994, Debbie Keller in 1995 and 1996, Staci Wilson in 1995, Cindy Parlow in 1996, 1997 and 1998, Robin Confer in 1997, Lorrie Fair in 1999, Meredith Florence in 2000, Lindsay Tarpley in 2003, Catherine Reddick in 2003, Heather O'Reilly in 2006, Yael Averbuch in 2006 and Casey Nogueira in 2008.

North Carolina begins the 2009 season with a 282-12-6 all-time home record. In the program's 30-year history, totaling 727 games, Carolina has shut out opponents 474 times and has been held scoreless in just 23 games.

Coach of the Year Honors Galore

Dorrance has been named national coach of the year for coaching both women and men. He earned women's national honors in 1982, 1986, 1997, 2000, 2003 and 2006 and he was named men's national coach of the year in 1987.

Dorrance has been named the Southeast Region coach of the year in 1989, 1996, 1997, 2001, 2003, 2006 and 2008. In 1987, 1990, 1991, 1993, 1996, 2001, 2003, 2004, 2006 and 2008, he was named the ACC Women's Soccer Coach of the Year.

In 1996, Dorrance received the highest honor possible from the National Soccer Coaches Association of America when he won the Walt Chyzowych Award for lifetime coaching achievement. In 2007, he won the Bill Jeffrey Award from the NSCAA for raising intercollegiate soccer to new heights through his long-term dedication to the game.

Honors from His Peers at Carolina & Beyond

Dorrance was inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece in 1988, Carolina's highest honorary society which includes Carolina students, faculty and staff.

In 1994, Dorrance added another cherished honor when the athletic department designated him a "Priceless Gem." This honor is reserved only for those individuals who have contributed in extraordinary ways to the successful athletic climate at the University.

In 1995, Dorrance's program was profiled in a full-length documentary film entitled, "Dynasty." The movie focused in particular on the Tar Heels' amazing nine-year national championship run from 1986 through 1994, and it included in-depth interviews with both current and former Tar Heel players. Another documentary about the UNC program, "Winning Isn't Everything," which has followed the exploits of the last three Carolina teams, has recently been released in DVD format.

In the fall of 2003, Sports Illustrated On Campus magazine named UNC's women's soccer program as the greatest college dynasty of all-time.

Dorrance has also coauthored two books. He combined with Tim Nash to write "Training Soccer Champions" in 1996. It sold out in its first printing and did equally well in its second press run. Dorrance co-authored the award-winning "The Vision of a Champion" with Gloria Averbuch. It was published in 2003 and almost immediately went to second and third printings. In 2006, "The Man Watching" by former Sports Illustrated writer Tim Crothers debuted to smashing reviews and amazing sales success.

Following the U.S. victory in the Women's World Cup in 1991, Dorrance received an Honorary All-America Award, one of the most prestigious of its kind, from the NSCAA.

In 1991, Soccer America named Dorrance one of the 20 most influential men in American soccer during the previous two decades. Soccer America followed that up in 1995 by naming Dorrance as one of the 25 most influential people in the history of American soccer. Dorrance was one of only three coaches on that list and the only women's coach tapped.

In 2002, Dorrance was selected for the North Carolina Soccer Hall of Fame, joining his mentor, Dr. Marvin Allen, who was in the initial class inducted into the Hall.

Dorrance In His College Years

A 1974 University of North Carolina graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and philosophy, Dorrance originally enrolled at St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Texas, where he spent one year studying and playing soccer. He then transferred to Carolina to play for Marvin Allen.

Dorrance's natural gifts on the pitch led to his selection to the All-ACC Team three times as an undergraduate and he won All-South Region honors in 1973. He was named in 2002 as one of the Top 50 men's soccer players in Atlantic Coast Conference history. He was also one of the top intramural sports performers on the Carolina campus during his days as an undergraduate.

Prior to his permanent return to Chapel Hill in 1974, he organized youth soccer leagues in both Connecticut and North Carolina. He was the founder of both the North Carolina Youth Soccer Association and the North Carolina Senior Soccer Association.

Dorrance has an "A" level coaching license from the U.S. Soccer Federation. He was a charter member of the NCAA Women's Soccer Committee and he also served as the women's chairman of the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America. He is the former chairman of the NCAA Men's and Women's Soccer Rules Committee and one of the few coaches in the country to qualify as a national staff coach for the U.S. Soccer Federation and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He is also involved in training coaches and awarding coaching licenses. In the summer of 2003, he was named to the Board of Directors of the National Soccer Hall of Fame.

Dorrance's summer soccer camps for women are the most popular in the nation. The camps sell out well in advance. Dorrance has even hosted a version of the famous camp in England.

Dorrance also made a seamless transition to his role as the color analyst on the WUSA Game of the Week on Saturday afternoons as shown on PAX TV from 2001-03.

The Dorrance Family

Dorrance was born on April 9, 1951, in Bombay, India, and he is married to M'Liss Gary Dorrance. The couple celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary in August 2009. M'Liss is a former professional ballet dancer who teaches at the Ballet School of Chapel Hill, which she co-founded in 1980.

She was recently awarded emeritus status following her 2007 retirement from Duke University where she taught and served the Dance Program for 32 years. When M'Liss is not watching soccer games on the weekends she is rehearsing her choreography for Chapel Hill Dance Theatre productions.

Carolina's Influences On The Game

- Current and former UNC players have been staples on World Cup rosters as both players and coaches. The 1991 U.S. World Cup roster featured nine players and two coaches; the 1995 U.S. World Cup roster featured seven players and two coaches; the 1999 U.S. World Cup roster featured eight players and one coach; the 2003 U.S. World Cup roster featured six players and two coaches; the 2007 U.S. World Cup roster featured five players as well as one player on the Canadian roster.

- Olympic Team rosters have also been filled with Tar Heel coaches and players. The 1996 U.S. Olympic Team included seven players and two coaches, the 2000 U.S. Olympic Team included six players and two coaches; the 2004 U.S. team included six players and two coaches; and in the 2008 Olympic Games four players competed on the U.S. squad and one player was on the Canadian roster.

- Forty-eight Carolina players have earned caps with the United States National Team since its founding in 1985.

- Nineteen current and former players are listed on 2009 U.S. National Team player pools. Eight are part of the full national team pool, seven are part of the U23 pool and four are part of the U20 player pool.

- North Carolina featured the largest alumnae class of players drafted by teams for the inaugural season of Women's Professional Soccer (WPS) in 2009 with 13. Notre Dame was second with 10 and three other universities had seven.

The Dorrances have three children.

Michelle, a graduate of New York University, is an internationally renowned rhythm tap dancer residing in New York where she is on faculty at Broadway Dance Center. Michelle was the cover and feature article of the March 2005 issue of Dance Magazine and is currently celebrating her second anniversary performing in STOMP, NYC, the off-Broadway hit, following a year in the national tour production.

Natalie, a UNC graduate, is currently on leave from the Greensboro public schools. She and attorney husband David Harris, a UNC law school graduate, are the proud new parents of Finley Dorrance Harris. The Dorrance family's first grandchild was born in April 2009.

Donovan, a 2009 graduate of Chapel Hill High School, is attending UNC Greensboro this fall. He plans to major in English and also pursue interests in music and theatre.

Dorrance's soccer origins stem from his youth when he lived in Ethiopia (1959-61). He also resided in India, Kenya, Singapore, Belgium and Switzerland while growing up. His family moved all around the world following his father's assignments as an international businessman. Additional members of the Dorrance Clan residing in Chapel Hill include Anson's mother, Peggy, and his brother Peter and wife Dolly Hunter, all avid fans of the UNC women's soccer team.

It can be easily argued that the University of North Carolina possesses the best women's collegiate soccer coach in the country. Perhaps even more amazing, though, is that Carolina can legitimately claim that it has the second best coach in the nation as well in long-time Tar Heel chief assistant coach Bill Palladino. Palladino is a man who decades ago could easily have left UNC and secured his choice of some of the best head coaching opportunities in the women's ranks.

In 2009, he returns for his 30th year as head coach Anson Dorrance's right hand man, demonstrating the tremendous loyalty he has to the program he helped Dorrance shape at UNC, the alma mater of both Dorrance and Palladino. Palladino's success in developing brilliant defensive schemes has been a key element in leading Tar Heel teams to 19 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championships, 19 ACC regular-season titles and 20 national collegiate titles since he joined the staff in 1980.

The defenses he has coached at Carolina have allowed only 347 goals in the 727 games the Tar Heels have played in their history, an average of only 0.48 goals per game. Carolina's defense was a huge part of the success of the 2008 team which outscored its opponents 89-16 en route to winning UNC's 20th national championship. The Tar Heels' patented flat back three defense of Kristi Eveland, Whitney Engen and Rachel Givan, along with co-goalkeepers Anna Rodenbough and Ashlyn Harris, recorded 17 shutouts on the season as the Tar Heels went 25-1-2.

As Carolina's lead assistant, Palladino is the chief architect behind what promises to be yet another outstanding Carolina defensive unit in 2009 with only Rodenbough missing from the five-player rotation than manned the back line last season. In fact, under Palladino's expert direction, Carolina defensive units have consistently been a critical cog in Tar Heel runs to national championships. In 1987, the Tar Heels set an NCAA record on the defensive end of the field unlikely to ever be matched. The team allowed only two goals all season. Goalkeeper Anne Sherow led a team effort which produced 22 shutouts in 24 games. Those 22 shutouts stand as an NCAA record that has only been equaled once and that was by another UNC team exactly one decade later. While going 27-0-1 in 1997, the Tar Heels posted 22 shutouts in the team's 28 games.

In 2003, Palladino worked his magic again on the UNC defense with a great assist from Chris Ducar due to Palladino's absence for much of the season while being the assistant coach with the U.S. Team competing in the 2003 World Cup. That defense did not allow a single goal in six NCAA Tournament games as the Tar Heels outscored their opponents 32-0 to earn their first NCAA title in three years.

Palladino's proficient skill in coaching defense has been utilized by more than just the UNC soccer program. In 2002-03, he served as the top assistant coach for the U.S. Women's National Team before retiring from that role in January 2004. In that capacity, Palladino served as the chief assistant to U.S. National Team head coach April Heinrichs, a 1987 UNC graduate, who coached the national team from 2000-05. In the fall of 2003, Palladino split his duties between UNC and the National Team as it competed in the 2003 Women's World Cup. The U.S. women won the bronze medal in that competition.

Palladino came aboard as an assistant coach during the program's second year in existence and has been coaching along side Dorrance through the last 29 years, a stretch that has seen UNC win 20 national championships and 20 ACC titles.

In 1991, Palladino was named South Region Coach of the Year by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He took over the helm for much of that season as interim head coach while Dorrance directed the efforts of the U.S. Women's National Team in its successful quest to win the 1991 Women's World Cup title in China.

Palladino was head coach of the Tar Heels for 10 games that season and Carolina was victorious in each contest, including three games in the NCAA Tournament. North Carolina won the 10th of its 20 national titles with a 3-1 win over Wisconsin on November 24, 1991 at Fetzer Field. He became the first assistant coach to have ever won head coaching regional coach-of-the-year honors.

"For me, Bill is the reason I enjoy my job so much," says head coach Anson Dorrance. "He is the reason the players enjoy the program so much. Bill is a big part of the reason there is such great team chemistry."

"Bill is a team builder. He has helped us develop a philosophy towards player development that encourages an informal but effective rapport between players and coaches," Dorrance continues. "Bill is a terrific counterbalance against my fiery and intense nature. That balance makes our program unique and fortunately very successful."

Palladino's coaching career with the Carolina women's team began in 1980. A Chapel Hill native, Palladino joined the staff that year after three seasons as an assistant coach – also to Dorrance – with the UNC men's soccer program from 1977-79. Dorrance was named head coach of the men's program in 1977 and led it for 12 seasons, retiring as the men's head coach after the 1988 campaign.

The 58-year-old Palladino holds an "A" coaching license from the U.S. Soccer Federation. He was head coach of the South team at the 1995 U.S. Olympic Festival in Denver, Colo. He also served as head coach of the Raleigh Wings in the W League in the late 1990s. Under his stewardship, the team completed an undefeated season in 1998 and added a second W League crown in 1999.

At Carolina, his duties include on-field coaching, recruiting, directing camps, scouting and administration.

A 1973 University of North Carolina graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology, Palladino played varsity men's soccer at Carolina for three seasons from 1970-72 under the aegis of legendary coach Marvin Allen.

Palladino expanded his already-vast repertoire from 2001-03 when he served as a sideline reporter and color commentator for national and regional WUSA telecasts.

Palladino has two children from his first marriage. Twins Bill and Suzi live in Chapel Hill, N.C. and San Francisco, Calif., respectively.

Palladino is married to former Tar Heel soccer star Wendy Gebauer Palladino, who earned All-America honors while playing at UNC from 1985-88. Bill and Wendy are the parents of Zachary Ryan, who was born on January 14, 2005. Wendy is employed by Wachovia Securities as a financial analyst.

The 2009 season marks Chris Ducar's 14th year as the goalkeeper coach and recruiting coordinator for the University of North Carolina women's soccer program. Ducar's prowess as a coach was recognized at the conclusion of the 2006 season when he was named the national assistant coach of the year by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He also won the same assistant coach of the year award for the NSCAA's South Region. Ducar has helped lead Carolina to NCAA championships in 1996, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2003, 2006 and 2008 and to ACC championships in 12 of the past 13 years.

A member of the Olympic Development Program Staff in Regions I and III, Ducar is a National Clinician for the U.S. Youth Soccer Association and belongs to the National Soccer Coaches Association of America.

Ducar has been a mainstay in coaching U.S. women's national teams in international events. He was the goalkeeper coach for the U21 National Team which won the 1999 Nordic Cup title in Iceland. Former UNC player Siri Mullinix was the championship keeper for the U.S. in that tournament, and she was the starter for the U.S. National Team in the 2000 Olympics when the Americans won the silver medal.

Ducar served as goalkeeper coach for the 1998 U.S. U21 women's national team which competed in the Nordic Cup. The United States won the silver medal in that competition. He also served as goalkeeper coach for the 1997 U.S. U21 national team that won the gold medal in the 1997 Nordic Cup in Denmark.

In addition to his duties as an assistant coach at UNC, Ducar has also served as an assistant coach for the women's team at UNC Greensboro from 1995-98 on a part-time basis before he became a full-time coach at Carolina. In 1995, he was the goalkeeper coach at Greensboro College. In 1990-91, he was an assistant coach at UC-Santa Cruz.

During his time at Carolina, Ducar has tutored three first-team All-America goalkeepers in Siri Mullinix, Jenni Branam and Aly Winget. Mullinix was a three-year starter for UNC, and Branam and Winget were both four-year starting goalkeepers. Winget set the ACC records for solo shutouts in a season with 16 in 2003 and in a career with 35. In 2006, Anna Rodenbough nearly equaled Winget's mark as she posted 15 solo shutouts in helping the Tar Heels win the NCAA championship. Over the past two seasons, Ducar oversaw UNC's successful goalkeeper rotation of Anna Rodenbough and Ashlyn Harris.

In the summer of 2000, Ducar served as the head coach for the North Carolina women's state team that won the regional championship and advanced to compete in the Donnelly Cup national tournament over Thanksgiving weekend.

Ducar graduated from the University of Missouri in 1990 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science. He was a Dean's List student at Mizzou and went on to earn a teaching credential from San Jose State University in 1995.

Ducar played on the club soccer team at Missouri from 1986-90. Post-collegiately, he played for Inter A.C. in Fremont, Calif., helping the team claim the 1990 Premier Division title. He was also a member of the San Francisco Bay Blackhawks of the APSL when they won the 1991 national championship. He played for the San Jose Oaks, the 1992 U.S. Open Cup champions.

Former national director for Soccer Plus Goalkeeper Schools in Connecticut, he spent much of his time traveling the United States organizing camps and clinics for Soccer Plus. He has also served as director of Go For Gold Soccer Schools, World Soccer and Santa Cruz Soccer Camps in California and for David Brcic's Goalkeeper Schools in Missouri.

Ducar holds coaching licenses from the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (premier license) and the United States Soccer Federation (national "A" license). Ducar is on both the United States Soccer Federation and National Soccer Coaches Association of America National Goalkeeping Staffs.

At the 2007 National Soccer Coaches Association of America banquet Chris Ducar received the award as the top assistant in the college ranks for the year 2006.

A Program of Remarkable Consistency

The University of North Carolina women's soccer program is one of the most successful sport programs in the history of college athletics. In its first 30 years, Carolina has won 20 national championships and played in 25 of 28 College Cups (final four teams) sanctioned by the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) in 1981 and National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) from 1982-2008.

Under head coach Anson Dorrance, who assumed the coaching reins when the program was elevated to varsity status in 1979, the Tar Heels have staked a claim as one of the great dynasties in intercollegiate athletics history. In fact it was judged the greatest in the opinion of Sports Illustrated On Campus magazine which featured the Tar Heels on its cover in 2003.

Heading into the 2009 season, the Tar Heels have posted a 673-33-21 overall record in the history of the sport. When Carolina defeated Notre Dame in the 2006 national championship game, the program officially reached a point where it had won 600 more games than it had lost for the first time in history. It accomplished that feat while having played only 675 matches.

Carolina won the first official national championship, the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) title, in 1981 and has since won a total of 19 of 27 NCAA championships with titles coming in 1982, 1983, 1984, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1996, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2003m 2006 and 2008. The only eight years since 1981 in which the Tar Heels did not win the national crown were 1985 when they lost to George Mason in the NCAA championship game, 1995 when they lost to eventual NCAA champion Notre Dame in the NCAA semifinals, 1998 when they fell to Florida in the NCAA championship game, 2001 when Santa Clara beat Carolina in the championship contest, 2002 when they were upset by Santa Clara in the NCAA semifinals, 2004 when Notre Dame became the first school other than Carolina to win more than one national championship, 2005 when Portland won its second title and 2007 when USC claimed its first championship. The last seven times UNC has failed to advance in NCAA play, the games have either been decided by one goal or resulted in a tie where the advancing team earned its way to the next round in a penalty kick shootout.

The 1981 Carolina women's soccer team, in only its third varsity year, got the championship fever stirred up in Chapel Hill when it won the first of the University's 20 national crowns in the sport. The Tar Heels claimed the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) national crown by defeating Central Florida 1-0 at Kenan Stadium. The NCAA started its championship a year later in 1982.

In fact, the last time Carolina lost any game, anywhere by a margin of more than one goal was 24 years ago – on November 24, 1985 when George Mason beat UNC 2-0 in the NCAA championship game. Carolina has played 579 games since that loss to George Mason and 50,743 minutes and eight seconds have ticked off stadium clocks since the Tar Heels last fell by more than a single goal.

Carolina's women's soccer program has won 19 NCAA titles, more NCAA Division I women's national championships than any other Division I women's athletics sport program in the nation.

The Tar Heels' 20 total national championships are more than any other sports program has won, men's or women's, in Atlantic Coast Conference history. In addition, UNC women's soccer teams have won 20 of the 22 official ACC championships decided since league play started in 1987.

An Amazing Array of Talent

Well over 100 different Tar Heel players in the past 30 years have earned the distinction of being named All-Americans as either first-, second- or third-team choices and most of those players have won All-America honors in multiple seasons during their Carolina careers. In 30 campaigns, Carolina has had 67 selections to either the NSCAA coaches or Soccer America first-team All-America squads, 43 more than second-place Connecticut on the list.

Sixteen players — April Heinrichs, Shannon Higgins, Kristine Lilly, Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Debbie Keller, Staci Wilson, Cindy Parlow, Robin Confer, Lorrie Fair, Meredith Florance, Catherine Reddick, Lindsay Tarpley, Heather O'Reilly, Yael Averbuch and Casey Nogueira — have been named the National Player of the Year in at least one season, some winning those honors on multiple occasions. Lori Henry, Shannon

Higgins, Kristine Lilly, Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Cindy Parlow, Lorrie Fair, Lindsay Tarpley, Heather O'Reilly, Yael Averbuch and Casey Nogueira have been saluted as the Atlantic Coast Conference's Player of the Year or Offensive Player of the Year. Carolina has had a total of 127 selections to the first- or second-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference squads since the league began sponsorship of the sport in 1987, outflanking any other league school in that regard by a wide margin. UNC has also boasted the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament

The numbers associated with the program's success boggle the mind. Five Tar Heels have been named ACC Freshman of the Year and seven have been named National Freshman Player of the Year. Anson Dorrance has been named national coach of the year on seven occasions and ACC coach of the year 10 times.

Still more numbers illustrate the dominance of this program. Nine Carolina women's soccer players have won the Patterson Medal as Carolina's outstanding senior athlete, the most recent honoree being Heather O'Reilly in 2007. The recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the

In 2003, Sports Illustrated on Campus magazine named the North Carolina women's soccer team as the "Greatest College Sports Program Ever."

Outstanding Female Athlete of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference has been a Tar Heel women's soccer player six times, including Casey Nogueira in 2008. UNC has had 136 selections for All-Tournament honors at the AIAW or NCAA national tourney final fours since 1981.

The Tar Heels have boasted choices for the offensive, defensive or overall Most Valuable Player at the NCAA Tournament 30 times. On 84 occasions, Tar Heels have been tapped as All-ACC Tournament selections since that honor team was started in 1991.

Lasting Relationship With The U.S. National Team

Many Carolina players have continued their playing careers as members of the U.S. National Team. Since the founding of the National Team program by the U.S. Soccer Federation in 1985, a total of 48 different Carolina players have earned caps on the National Team through September 1, 2009. Several other former Tar Heels have gone on to play for the national teams of other countries, including those of Canada, Denmark, The Netherlands, Iceland and Norway. Dorrance was the chief architect behind the initial success of the U.S. National Team, having coached that squad from its second year of existence in 1986 until he stepped down in 1994 to concentrate solely on his head coaching duties at Carolina.

Under Dorrance's brilliant coaching guidance, the U.S. won the first-ever Women's World Cup Championship in China in November 1991. Half of the 1991 U.S. roster, nine of the 18 players, played collegiately for the Tar Heels. Seven players who competed collegiately at Chapel Hill 1999, eight more UNC players competed for the U.S. team which recaptured the World Cup title by outscoring China 5-4 on penalty kicks in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. Six more Tar Heels played for the 2000 U.S. Olympic Team which won the silver medal in Sydney, Australia.

The 2000 Olympic Team was coached by UNC alumna April Heinrichs. The 2003 U.S. World Cup roster featured six more Tar Heel players as the Americans claimed the bronze medal at that event. Six Tar Heels were also named by Heinrichs to the U.S. Team which played in the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece. That team won the second gold medal for the U.S. in Olympic competition. The 2007 World Cup was played in China with five former Tar Heel players on the U.S. squad and one UNC player on the Canadian team. The Americans won the bronze medal in that event. In 2008, four more Tar Heels were on the U.S. Olympic Team and one was on the Canadian side with the Americans winning gold for the third time in four Olympic soccer tournaments.

It All Started Way Back When

Having players compete in the World Cup and the Olympics was a passing thought when the program first began playing on a varsity level in 1979. The Tar Heels played their first game, a 12-0 win over the Duke University club soccer team on September 20, 1979. That first season saw Carolina compile a 10-2 overall record. Janet Rayfield, still the Tar Heels' third all-time leading scorer with 223 points, scored 30 goals that season.

In 1980, the Tar Heels won 21 of 26 games and were again led in scoring by Rayfield, who had 25 goals. Midfielder Nancy Clary became the first Tar Heel player in history to earn first-team All-America honors. The five losses were the most Carolina has ever suffered in one season. The 2006 team had four losses on its ledger and the 2000 team had three losses on its record. No other Tar Heel squad has ever lost more than two matches.

The 1981 season was an exciting year for the women's college game as the first ever national champion was crowned during a 12-team, four-day tournament in Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels provided their fans with many exciting moments during the course of the season, scoring a school record 172 goals. Led by 36-goal scorer Stephanie Zeh and getting 30 more tallies from Rayfield, UNC averaged an astounding 7.48 goals per game.

Following a 19-0 regular season and a win over Virginia in the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) regional tournament, the Tar Heels swept the AIAW National Tournament. After receiving a first-round bye as the top seed, Carolina defeated Massachusetts 6-0, Connecticut 5-0 and Central Florida 1-0 to take the championship. In the title game, the Tar Heels outshot the Golden Knights 30-8, scoring on a Diane Beatty goal off a Kathy Kelly corner kick with 19:36 left in the first half.

UNC's chief assistant coach Bill Palladino and head coach Anson Dorrance have built a true soccer dynasty in Chapel Hill as Carolina has won 20 of the past 28 national championships and 20 of the past 22 Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

were on the 1995 U.S. Team which captured third place at the World Cup. During the summer of 1996 at the Centennial Olympic Games in Atlanta, the U.S. roster was again filled with Tar Heel connections as the Americans captured the gold medal. Both of that team's assistant coaches and seven of the 16 players were Tar Heels, giving the gold medal the U.S. won a pronounced Carolina Blue tint. In the summer of

The NCAA Dynasty Kicks Off

The NCAA became the sport's governing body in 1982 and the Tar Heels celebrated by winning their second national championship in a row. Carolina opened the season with 10 consecutive victories to run its winning streak to 33 games over two seasons, but then it dropped back-to-back decisions to Missouri-St. Louis and Cortland State. Following that second loss, the Tar

579 games since a loss by more than one goal
The last time Carolina lost a game, by a margin of more than one goal was 24 years ago – on November 24, 1985 when George Mason beat UNC 2-0 in the NCAA championship game. Carolina has played 579 games since that loss and 50,743 minutes and eight seconds have ticked off stadium clocks since the Tar Heels last fell by more than a single goal.

Heels won their final nine games, culminating in an NCAA title with a 2-0 win over Central Florida. Amy Machin's 22 goals and 59 points led the team in scoring and she notched one of the two goals in the championship game victory. Betsy Johnson came off the bench to score off a rebound late in the first half for the winning goal.

The 1983 campaign brought the arrival of April Heinrichs to the Carolina campus. The first dominant women's soccer player in the American game, who would later coach the U.S. National Team from 2000-05, Heinrichs was the most successful player of the 1980s in collegiate soccer and as one of the early stars of the U.S. National Team. In her freshman season, Heinrichs led the Tar Heels to their third straight national title as she scored 18 goals and totaled 47 points. Machin was again amongst the team's leaders in scoring with 19 goals. Only a 3-1 loss at Connecticut in the opening game of the season prevented UNC from having another perfect season. Carolina claimed its third title in a row as Heinrichs scored two goals in a convincing 4-0 win over George Mason in the NCAA championship match at Orlando, Fla.

In 1984, the Tar Heels were the No. 1-ranked team in the nation from season's start to season's finish and they capped their fourth straight national title campaign with a 2-0 win over Connecticut at Fetzer Field in the title game. The 1984 season marked the first of seven times UNC would play host to the NCAA College Cup at Fetzer Field. Heinrichs, the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America (ISAA) National Player of the Year, led the team with 23 goals and 13 assists and Joan Dunlap was second on the squad with 21 goals and 10 assists. Carolina went 24-0-1 and won its first 17 games to run its consecutive game winning streak to a then NCAA-record 36 games.

George Mason ended the 36-game winning streak by playing the Heels to a 1-1 tie on October 20, 1984. When College Cup weekend rolled around, the Tar Heels were taken to overtime in the national semifinals by California, but an Amy Machin goal with 9:05 left in the second extra period propelled the Tar Heels into the NCAA final against Connecticut. The championship game was played in front of 3,500 fans with Heinrichs and Dunlap scoring second-half goals to provide the Tar Heels with a 2-0 victory and a fourth straight national title.

All Good Things Must Come to an End

The NCAA championship trophy took a one-year hiatus from Chapel Hill in 1985 as the Tar Heels lost the national championship game to host George Mason 2-0. Led by a 50-point season from April Heinrichs and a team-leading 19 goals from Carrie Serwetnyk, the Tar Heels finished the season 18-2-1. The 1985 campaign was one of just six seasons (of a total of 30) in which Carolina has failed to win 20 games in a season. In fact, since going 10-2 in that initial 1979 campaign, the Tar Heels have won at least Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...

Only three seasons with more than two losses UNC has played 30 years of varsity soccer from 1979 through 2008. Only three teams have lost more than two matches in a season. The 1980 team finished 21-5, the 2000 team was 21-3 and the 2006 team was 19-4-1. Despite the three losses in 2000, Carolina went on to win the NCAA championship that year.

North Carolina seniors April Heinrichs, Kathleen O'Dell (partially obscured), Marcia McDermott and Bettina Bernardi celebrate the Tar Heels' 1986 NCAA championship. The Tar Heels defeated Colorado College 2-0 in the NCAA final to reclaim the title they had lost to George Mason the previous year.

18 games in each of the past 29 years.

After opening the 1985 season with a 3-3 draw against George Mason, Carolina ran off 12 straight wins and raised its collegiate record unbeaten streak to 57 games. Massachusetts eventually ended the streak with a 2-0 win in Amherst, Mass. Carolina went on to meet George Mason in Fairfax, Va., in the NCAA championship game. The Patriots scored a goal in each half and sent the Tar Heels home without the first-place trophy for the first time since 1981. At that time no one suspected that Carolina would not lose another game for five years and a stretch of over 100 games. In fact, the Tar Heels would never taste defeat again in the 1980s after that title game loss to GMU.

The 1986 campaign proved to be a season of redemption for the Tar Heels as seniors April Heinrichs and Marcia McDermott were determined to go out as winners. Two decades later those teammates earned stature as significant national figures in the sport. Heinrichs was the head coach of the U.S. National Team for five seasons, winning an Olympic gold medal in 2004, while McDermott won the 2002 Women's United Soccer Association (WUSA) championship in her second season as head coach of the Carolina Courage. In 1986, Heinrichs was named National Player of the Year for a second time in her career, scoring a career-best 28 goals and totaling 69 points. McDermott set what was then the Carolina single-season record with 23 assists. The Tar Heels and George Mason met again, this time in the national semifinals, and 23 years between season opening losses Carolina lost its 1983 season opener at Connecticut 3-1. It would be 23 years before the Tar Heels would lose another season opener, falling 1-0 at Texas A&M in double overtime in 2006. In 30 years of play, the Tar Heels are 27-2-1 in season-opening games and 28-1-1 in home openers.

Carolina came out on top 3-2 in overtime. Wendy Gebauer had two goals for Carolina and Heinrichs tallied the winner 5:50 into the first overtime period. Gebauer and Tracey Bates scored goals in the title game the next day against Colorado College in a 2-0 win. The Tar Heels found themselves back in familiar territory — atop the victory stand after the NCAA championship game.

Shannon Higgins' Postseason Fireworks

The 1987 campaign was a year dominated by defense as a stifling Carolina unit allowed only two goals during the entire season and posted an NCAA record 22 shutouts, a mark equaled only once since — by the 1997 UNC team. The defensive unit leaders were ACC Player of the Year Lori Henry, sweeper Carla Warden and goalkeeper Anne Sherow. They anchored a defense which allowed only 52 shots and two goals in 24 games en route to posting a 23-0-1 record. Only a tie with William & Mary marred the Tar Heels' perfect record. Midfielder Wendy Gebauer's 15 goals and 40 points led the Tar Heel offense in 1987, but it was a second-half goal by sophomore midfielder Shannon Higgins which proved to be the margin of victory in a 1-0 win over Massachusetts in the NCAA final. That game, along with the semifinal win over California, were played in near-Arctic weather conditions at Amherst, Mass., making it one of the most memorable NCAA College Cups ever. In the championship game, the wind was so strong that it made attacking offensively going against the gusts a futile proposition. Fortunately for Carolina, the Tar Heels went against the wind in the first half of the championship game and they were able to play the Minutewomen to a standstill. UNC had the benefit of the wind in the second half and scored the game's only goal to capture another NCAA championship. Higgins' game-winning goal would be the first of three she would score in NCAA championship games in three successive seasons.

The 1988 season proved to be a challenging one for the Tar Heels as rival NC State threatened to steal the championship trophy and relocate it down I-40 to Raleigh. The teams battled to a pair of dramatic 1-1 ties, one in the regular season game at Raleigh and another in the ACC Tournament championship game on the Wolfpack's home field at Method Road Soccer Stadium. NC State actually won the ACC title in a penalty kick shootout 4-3. During the season, Carolina set an NCAA record for a collegiate soccer unbeaten streak. First, the Tar Heels topped their own women's record of 57 games without a loss and then it surged past the Penn State men's soccer team's 65-game record unbeaten streak for all of college soccer. As the 1988 Soccer America National Player of the Year Shannon Higgins was an electrifying force on the squad, directing playmaking duties and setting up goals from her attacking center midfield position. In the national championship game versus NC State, Higgins scored three goals in a 4-1 Carolina victory. That match was played in front of 4,500 fans at Fetzer Field, the largest collegiate women's soccer crowd in history at the time.

Linda Hamilton and Kristine Lilly help Mia Hamm off the field after UNC's dramatic 4-3 overtime win over NC State in the 1990 NCAA quarterfinals at Fetzer Field. Soccer America has called that contest the "Greatest Game in Women's Soccer History."

In 1989, Higgins again was voted the top player in the nation and she led the Tar Heels to another unbeaten finish and national title. Higgins was named the National Player of the Year by Soccer America, won the Hermann Trophy and the Honda Soccer Award, was the ACC Player of the Year and became the first ever recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's Female Athlete of the Year. She led the team in scoring with 48 points and scored the game-winning goal in the NCAA championship game for the third consecutive year against Colorado College in a 2-0 Tar Heel win. Freshmen Mia Hamm and Kristine Lilly scored 21 and 20 goals, respectively, although at that time it was a mere glimpse of that duo's future greatness in the world of women's soccer. Seniors Shannon Higgins, Julie Guarnotta, Ava Hyatt and Carla Warden closed out their four-year careers with a stunning 89-0-6 record and a quartet of NCAA championship rings.

The Greatest Game in Women's Soccer Lore

In 1990, Carolina again won the national championship, but did so with a mark in the loss column for the first time since November 24, 1985. On September 22, 1990, Connecticut ended the Tar Heels' national record unbeaten streak at 103 games by defeating the Tar Heels 3-2 in overtime at Storrs, Conn. Ironically, the Tar Heels would go on to avenge that defeat by routing the again in the first overtime period, but both times the Tar Heels came back to tie the game on goals by Kristine Lilly. Finally, with just over two minutes remaining in the second overtime and the contest seemingly destined to go to penalty kicks, Hamm lofted a corner kick from the right side which forward Rita Tower headed in for the game-winning goal. After that dramatic game, which Soccer America dubbed the "Greatest Game in Women's Soccer History," the NCAA College Cup was played in Chapel Hill. Tower and Lilly each scored in the 2-1 semifinal win over Colorado College and six different Tar Heels scored in the championship game shutout of Connecticut.

In 1991, the Tar Heels had to defend their national title minus a host of spectacular players as well as its head coach. The top four leading scorers from the year before were not available to the team for much of the season. Kristine Lilly played the first 19 games of the season but departed prior to the start of the ACC and NCAA Tournaments to play in the 1991 World Cup in China. Mia Hamm, also on the World Cup Team, sat out the year as a redshirt. Rita Tower and Jill Jakowicz were both rehabilitating knee injuries. Led by freshman midfield sensation Tisha Venturini and senior forward Pam Kalinoski, who herself had battled back from a serious knee injury, UNC won 24 consecutive games to win the title, including the last 10 with assistant coach Bill Palladino at the controls after Dorrance had left to coach the U.S. in the World Cup in China. Lilly was the consensus National Player of the Year as well as the ACC Player of the Year. Venturini was the National Freshman of the Year and the ACC Tournament MVP. Venturini and Kalinoski split MVP honors in the NCAA College Cup. Kalinoski set the national record for assists in a season with 28 and Venturini led the nation in scoring with 21 goals and 58 points.

1992. Perhaps The Greatest Team Ever

The 1992 Tar Heels were what many observers called the best team in the history of collegiate women's soccer. It would be extremely difficult to argue to the contrary. Carolina rolled Huskies 6-0 in the NCAA championship game at Fetzer Field.

Following the loss at Connecticut, the Tar Heels fell out of the No. 1 spot in the ISAA poll for the first time since the second week of the 1986 season.

Carolina regained the top spot by knocking off No. 1-ranked Virginia 3-0 late in the regular season and it then beat the Cavaliers again 2-0 in the ACC Tournament title game at Charlottesville, Va. The 1990 national quarterfinals matched the Tar Heels against old nemesis NC State in what would be one of the most exciting and dramatic games ever played in the sport's history. The Wolfpack held one-goal leads late in regulation time and to a 25-0 record, a seventh consecutive NCAA title and an NCAA record for consecutive wins with 58 in a row by season's end.

The Tar Heels outscored their opposition 132-11 and trailed on just two occasions, once in a regular season victory at NC State and again in the NCAA final versus Duke. Both opponents' leads were short-lived. In the NCAA championship game against Duke, the Tar Heels rattled off nine successive goals after the Blue Devils drew first blood. Hamm led the nation with a school record 97 points on 32 goals and 33 assists, the latter mark also being a school record. She was the unanimous choice as National Player of the Year and was the ACC Player of the Year as well as the Most Valuable Player of both the ACC and NCAA Tournaments. Lilly and Venturini added 65 and 46 points, respectively, and joined Hamm as first-team All-Americans. The Tar Heels won the NCAA championship during an almost surreal 9-1 victory over Duke at rain-soaked Fetzer Field as Hamm became only the second player to post a hat trick in an NCAA final game. But the most remarkable feat of the season may have been a mid-season West Coast road trip in which Carolina won four games in four days by a combined

Saying Goodbye to a Legend

In 1993, Hamm was again a unanimous selection as the National Player of the Year as she led the country in scoring with 68 points on 26 goals and 16 assists. She helped lead the Tar Heels to a 23-0 record as Carolina outscored the opposition, 92-15. Carolina hosted the NCAA College Cup at Fetzer Field for the fourth successive year and emerged with another national championship. Hamm finished her career with 103 goals, 72 assists and 278 points, each a school record. She also set NCAA Tournament scoring records for career and single tournament points, goals and assists. In 1994 she was named the recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's Top Female Athlete for the second consecutive year. Tisha Venturini missed several weeks at midseason with a broken bone in her foot but returned in time to reap Most Valuable Player honors at the ACC Tournament. The Tar Heels claimed their fifth straight league crown by virtue of a 4-1 win over Duke. Venturini was named first-team All-America for the third time. Before an NCAA record crowd of 5,721, UNC dismantled George Mason 6-0 in the NCAA final after the Tar Heels had whipped Massachusetts 4-1 in the semifinals.

The 1994 season was another triumphant campaign as the Tar Heels went 25-1-1 and won the NCAA championship for a ninth straight year. Venturini was the season's most impressive performer. She was unanimously selected the National Player of the Year by seven organizations and received first-team All-America honors for the fourth time in her career. Venturini, who led the Tar Heels with 21 goals and 13 assists for 55 points, was the ACC Player of the Year, MVP of the ACC Tournament and Most Outstanding Offensive Player of the NCAA Tournament. It was the third time in her career in which she was named the ACC Tournament MVP and the second time she earned MVP honors in the NCAA Tournament. Freshman Staci Wilson earned first-team All-America honors, was the National Freshman of the Year and the Most Outstanding Defensive Player in the NCAA Tournament.

The Tar Heels had two incredible streaks of excellence snapped in the regular season. An NCAA record consecutive game winning streak reached 92 contests before Carolina and Notre Dame battled to a 0-0 tie in St. Louis on October 2, 1994. On October 19, 1994, Duke handed the Tar Heels a 3-2 defeat at Fetzer Field. That loss snapped a 101-game unbeaten streak for the Tar Heels dating back to September 22, 1990. The setback was also Carolina's first home loss at Fetzer Field since October 25, 1980, a streak of 137 games. The Tar Heels and Blue Devils met twice more during the 1994 campaign and Carolina came away with a 4-2 win in the ACC Tournament championship game and a 3-1 win in the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals. Venturini had three goals in the ACC final, the first hat trick in the history of the Tournament at that point. Angela Kelly netted a pair of goals against Duke in the NCAA quarterfinals. The College Cup was held in Portland, Ore., where Venturini stole the show in the final two games of her college career. She capped her brilliant four years at Carolina by leading the Tar Heels to a 3-0 win over Connecticut in the semifinals and a 5-0 triumph over top-seeded Notre Dame in the final. Venturini scored twice in the championship game.

The 1995 season saw the Tar Heels' national championship streak end at nine seasons in a row. The previous year's senior class of 10 players was one of the most dominant in the history of the game. Carolina entered the 1995 campaign an inexperienced team with only three seniors and with a host of new starters on the field. Dorrance quickly molded the young players into a cohesive unit and the Tar Heels reeled off 25 successive wins while playing the nation's toughest schedule. Carolina won its eighth ACC title in nine years by sweeping through the tournament field and outscoring its opponents 16-0 in the three games. UNC dispatched Vanderbilt 4-0 in the NCAA second round after getting a bye in the first round as the tournament's top seed. Seventh-ranked Santa Clara fell victim to the Tar Heels 2-0 in the quarterfinals at Fetzer Field before UNC was beaten in the semifinals on an own goal in a 1-0 loss to fourth-ranked Notre Dame. What was then a women's soccer record crowd of 7,212 watched that Tar Heel loss, only the sixth loss at home in school history. Standout performances abounded during the 1995 campaign. Four Tar Heels earned first-team All-America honors—forward Debbie Keller, forward Cindy Parlow, defender Staci Wilson and goalkeeper Tracy Noonan. Keller and Wilson were named co-National Players of the Year by Soccer Digest.

Mining Olympic Gold

During the summer of 1996, Carolina's soccer fame grew as the Olympic Games held their first ever medal competition in women's soccer at the Games in Atlanta. The U.S. won the gold medal, beating China 2-1 in the final match with the help of a cast that had a pronounced Carolina Blue hue. Both assistant coaches for the team, Lauren Gregg and April Heinrichs, were Carolina graduates. Seven of the 16 players on the roster were either Carolina alumnae or Tar Heel players returning for the 1996 season. This cadre included Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Carla Overbeck, Kristine Lilly, Cindy Parlow, Staci Wilson and Tiffany Roberts.

Led by the play of co-National Players of the Year Debbie Keller and Cindy Parlow, UNC returned to the pinnacle of the collegiate women's soccer world during the 1996 campaign. After a sluggish start which saw the Tar Heels struggle through their first eight matches yet escape unscathed, Carolina fell to Notre Dame in the season's ninth game, 2-1 in overtime. The Fighting Irish thus became the first collegiate team in history to beat Carolina two times in a row. Dorrance reconfigured his defensive scheme to a flat back three alignment and Carolina has stuck with that defensive alignment ever since. Dorrance also moved a handful of key players to new positions on the field. Those plays worked with complete success. Carolina steamrolled through the final 17 games of the campaign to finish with a 25-1 record while winning its 14th national championship. UNC had spirited opposition in the ACC Tournament as Carolina claimed its eighth league crown in a row with wins over Florida State 7-1, Virginia 5-2 and Clemson 4-1. Junior forward Robin Confer was named the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament. The Tar Heels were the No. 1 seed in the NCAA Tournament despite the fact that Notre Dame had beaten Carolina during the regular season and both teams had only one loss heading into postseason play. Carolina shut out its first three opponents in the NCAA Tournament and then received a stiff challenge from homestanding Santa Clara in the semifinals. Earlier in the season the Tar Heels had escaped against SCU on a goal in the last minute of play by Debbie Keller. This time against Santa Clara, goals late in the second half by Cindy Parlow and Laurie Schwoy gave the Tar Heels a 2-1 victory. Two days later, Carolina avenged its last two defeats to Notre Dame by beating the second-seeded Fighting Irish 1-0 in overtime in the NCAA title match. Senior forward Debbie Keller ended her career on a splendid note by scoring the game-winning goal in the match's 111th minute.

blemishing the perfect mark. UNC allowed a paltry eight goals in 28 games and tied the NCAA record for shutouts in a season with 22. That mark had originally been established by the 1987 NCAA championship team at UNC. Carolina's toughest matches of the year came in the final three rounds of the NCAA Tournament as the Tar Heels outlasted Harvard 1-0 in the quarterfinals, came from behind to defeat Santa Clara 2-1 in the semifinals as Fair and Confer scored second-half goals and then blanked UConn 2-0 in the title game on goals by Parlow and Confer.

The 1998 team was an outstanding one although it failed to win the national championship. Led by seniors Cindy Parlow, Siri Mullinix and Tiffany Roberts, the Tar Heels won the first 24 games of the season heading into the NCAA College Cup at Greensboro, N.C. Carolina defeated Portland 1-0 in the semifinals on Meredith Florance's goal in the 150th minute of play, just 22 seconds before the match was going into penalty kicks to decide which team would advance to the finals. In the championship game, Florida scored in the first 10 minutes of play and Carolina was never able to produce an equalizer.

Reclaiming the Crown

The 1999 campaign started in unsettling fashion as Carolina lost two games in September and stood 6-2 just eight games into the season. It was the first time Carolina had lost two games in the same season since 1985.

But a strong senior class led by National Player of the Year Lorrie Fair as well as Rebekah McDowell, Lindsay Stoecker and Beth Sheppard rallied the troops. Over the final 18 games of the season, Carolina allowed only five goals, including only one in the final 13 games of the campaign. The signature Tar Heel defense, keyed by Fair and Stoecker, and featuring first-team All-America Danielle Borgman and freshman goalkeeper Jenni Branam refused to let Carolina lose down the season's stretch run. Carolina won its 11th straight ACC championship and it capped the season with brilliant play in the NCAA College Cup in, beating Penn State 2-0 in the semifinals to avenge a regular-season loss to the Nittany Lions and Notre Dame 2-0 in the championship game. Junior Meredith Florance and senior midfielder Beth Sheppard scored the goals in the championship game for Carolina.

In 2000, the Tar Heels won their 12th successive ACC championship and its 17th national championship. UNC's three losses marked only the second time in history Carolina had lost more than two times in a single year, the other instance being 1980. All three losses came on the road against ACC teams and in each of the one-goal losses the Tar Heels surrendered a goal on a penalty kick. Prior to 2000, the Tar Heels had lost only one ACC game in their history. UNC rebounded to sweep three opponents easily in the ACC Tournament, avenging its regular-season loss to Florida State in the semifinals 3-0 and winning against Duke 4-0 in the finals. Seeded fifth entering the NCAA Tournament, its lowest seed ever, UNC beat Wake Forest 5-0 in the second round, avenging another of its regular season losses. In three of the last four games of the NCAA Tournament, the Tar Heels had to rally from 1-0 deficits with less than 25 minutes to play. Carolina beat Virginia 2-1 in the third round on late goals by Laurie Schwoy and Meredith Florance and then rolled past Connecticut 3-0 in the quarterfinals behind a pair of goals by National Player of the Year Meredith Florance. The Tar Heels rallied to beat top-seeded Notre Dame 2-1 in the NCAA semifinals on goals by Kim Patrick and Jordan Walker and then overcame UCLA 2-1 in the national championship game. Freshmen scored the winning goals in the final two games of the season, both in the final 10 minutes of play. Jordan Walker scored to beat Notre Dame in the semifinals and Catherine Reddick had the game-winner in the title game after Florance had tied the match with less than 15 minutes to play.

2003 Team Excels With Aplomb

Despite brilliant regular seasons and a pair of ACC championships, UNC went without NCAA titles in both 2001 and 2002, losing both times to Santa Clara. The Bronocs beat the Heels in the championship game in 2001 and in the semifinals in 2002 by 1-0 and 2-1 scores, respectively.

The Tar Heels returned to the throne of college soccer in 2003 with one of the best teams, if not the best team, in the history of the game. For the first time since 1993, when the Tar Heels also accomplished the feat, a collegiate women's soccer team completed a season with an undefeated and untied record as the Tar Heels matched the NCAA record for wins in a season by finishing 27-0.

In three of the first six matches of the campaign, UNC had to go to overtime to win road games against Washington, Texas and Texas A&M. Lori Chalupny scored the game winner at UW and Maggie Tomecka and Libby Guess had game-winners in the Lone Star State matchups.

UNC was led by an impressive offensive array of talent which was spearheaded by co-National Player of the Year Lindsay Tarpley, who led the nation in total points with 73 and in assists with 27. Tarpley became the first player since Mia Hamm in 1993 to be named ACC Player of the Year and ACC Tournament MVP while also leading the ACC in scoring. Tarpley's 19 points in the NCAA Tournament were a UNC record, highlighted by 11 assists, a new mark for anyone in NCAA play in a single tournament.

Senior forward Alyssa Ramsey finished with 10 goals and 25 assists, the second-highest total of assists in the nation, and consensus National Freshman of the Year Heather O'Reilly shook off the effects of a broken leg suffered in June by scoring an amazing 13 goals in the final 12 games of the season, including eight in UNC's six NCAA Tournament contests, the most ever scored by a Tar Heel in a single NCAA Tournament. O'Reilly won NCAA Tournament offensive MVP honors and Catherine Reddick won the defensive award. Three Tar Heels earned All-America honors on defense including Honda Soccer Award and Hermann Trophy winner Catherine Reddick, a consensus first-team All-America choice. Senior Carmen Watley also copped All-America honors as did sophomore goalkeeper Aly Winget who finished second in the nation in goals against average and posted 16 solo shutouts, an ACC season record.

UNC outscored its opponents 113-11 on the season and was at its best in NCAA play when it scored 32 goals while not allowing a single tally in six games, a tournament record for defensive prowess. Carolina's opposition in the Tournament was not easy as the Tar Heels had to beat four conference champions en route to the title while beating No. 3 Santa Clara in the quarterfinals and No. 2 UCLA in the semifinals by identical 3-0 scores.

The 2004 and 2005 seasons produced another two ACC regular season titles for Carolina as well as an ACC Tournament title in the latter year. UNC's 10-member senior class in 2005, led by 2003 National Player of the Year Lindsay Tarpley and three-time consensus first-team All-America Lori Chalupny, finished its career with only four losses. The class also included All-Americas Kacey White and Kendall Fletcher and goalkeeper Aly Winget, who set the ACC record with 35 career solo shutouts.

Carolina returned to the top rung of college soccer in 2006 with a team which started seven freshmen in the second half of the NCAA championship game against Notre Dame. UNC lost its season opener at Texas A&M 1-0 in double overtime, its first loss in a lifidler since 1983. A week later, standing at 2-1, the Heels trailed UConn 2-0 at halftime before rallying for a 3-2 win. That second half of soccer turned the Tar Heels' season around and sent them on the way to a 10-0 ACC mark and a thrilling overtime win over Florida State 2-1 in the ACC championship game on a goal by senior Libby Guess.

In the NCAA Tournament, the Tar Heels rallied to beat Texas A&M in the quarterfinals, scored two late goals to beat UCLA in the semifinals and beat co-No. 1 Notre Dame 2-1 in the championship contest. Both Yael Averbuch and Heather O'Reilly earned national player of the year awards and O'Reilly was the offensive MVP of the College Cup for the second time.

After a 19-4-1 season in 2007, Carolina returned to the top of the college soccer ranks in 2008 as it won its 20th national championship and its 20th ACC title. National Player of the Year Casey Nogueira led the nation with 25 goals and her two goals in the second half of the NCAA title game rallied the Tar Heels past No. 1-ranked Notre Dame 2-1. Carolina, which finished the year 25-1-2, had to beat undefeated teams in both the NCAA semifinals and finals as UCLA and Notre Dame both headed into the College Cup without having lost in 2008. Carolina also won the ACC Tournament without allowing a goal in three games.

As Carolina prepares for the 2009 season the challenge for Dorrance will be to try to improve upon numbers which are already staggering in nature, including a 673-33-21 overall record, a 282-12-6 all-time record at Fetzer Field, a total of 474 defensive shutouts in the 727 games while being shut out offensively in only 23 of 727 games.

Note On Overtime Games

From 1979-1997, overtime games were formatted to include 2 mandated 15-minute overtime periods played out in their entirety. So all games indicated as overtime games during those 20 years are indicated with a 2OT designation and were all decided 2 mandatory 15-minute periods. Beginning in 1998, the overtime process was changed to a golden goal format with the exception of ACC and NCAA Tournament games. A goal scored in overtime ended the contest at that point in time. In 1999, the golden goal format went into effect for ACC Tournament and NCAA Tournament games as well. In 1999, 2000 and 2001, overtime periods were 15 minutes in length. Beginning in 2002, the process remained golden goal but the overtime periods were reduced to 10 minutes in length. From 1999 to the present, games that went to overtime are listed as either OT or 2OT depending on when the golden goal was scored. The 1998 NCAA semifinal match versus Portland was a four overtime sudden death match. The game would have gone to penalty kicks after the fourth overtime period.

*The NCAA recognizes only solo shutouts for individual statistical purposes. A shared shutout goes down as a team shutout but is not credited to any individual. Despite extensive records research by UNC Athletic Communications, determining the goalkeepers who played in shutout games in 1979, 1980, 1981, 1982, 1984, 1985, 1987 and 1988 did not yield complete and accurate results. #Led ACC. @Led Nation.

Since the founding of the United States Women's National Team in 1985, Carolina players have played an integral role in the team's success through the years. A total of 48 University of North Carolina players have earned caps playing on the United States National Team since its creation in 1985 through games of September 1, 2009.

Tar Heels who are members of the 2009 U.S. full national team pool include defender Lori Chalupny, defender Kendall Fletcher, midfielder Tobin Heath, midfielder Kristine Lilly, midfielder Heather O'Reilly, midfielder Lindsay Tarpley, midfielder Kacey White and defender Cat Whitehill.

Chalupny, Heath, O'Reilly and Tarpley were members of the U.S. Team which played in the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing, China.

Chalupny, O'Reilly, Heath and Tarpley were all on the U.S. Team which played in the 2008 Olympics in China, the most recent major competition, claiming the gold medal.

The U.S. National Team was coached by UNC alumna April Heinrichs, '86, from 2000-05. Heinrichs retired as the team's coach after leading the Americans to the 2004 Olympic gold medal in Athens, Greece.

One of the top highlights of all the National Team's events was the play of the 1999 U.S. World Cup Team which recaptured the world championship with a 5-4 shootout victory over China in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., on July 10, 1999. Rarely has any athletic team captured the imagination of the American public as did that team. Forty percent of the U.S. roster was the product of Carolina's program led by starting forwards Mia Hamm and Cindy Parlow, starting midfielder Kristine Lilly and starting defender Carla Overbeck, the team's captain. Reserve roles were played by midfielders Tisha Venturini and Tiffany Roberts, defender Lorrie Fair and goalkeeper Tracy Noonan.

Parlow tallied the game-winner as the U.S. ousted Brazil 2-0 in the semifinals. After battling China to a 0-0 tie through 120 minutes of play in the final, the U.S. triumphed 5-4 on penalty kicks with Tar Heels Overbeck, Lilly and Hamm providing three of the five successful chances from the mark in the penalty shootout.

In the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece, the U.S. reclaimed the gold medal it had relinquished to Norway in 2000. That squad was coached by Heinrichs and six Tar Heels played on the squad, including Hamm, who was competing in her final major international event before retiring from the sport. During the Olympic Tournament, Lilly and Parlow continued as veteran mainstays of the team and they were joined by three younger generation Tar Heels - Cat Whitehill, Heather O'Reilly and Lindsay Tarpley. O'Reilly scored the game-winning goal in overtime as the U.S. beat Germany 2-1 in the semifinals and then Tarpley scored the opening goal of the match as the Americans beat Brazil 2-1 in overtime for the gold medal. Tar Heel players accounted for seven of the 12 goals scored by the U.S. in the 2004 Olympics.

Tar Heel head coach Anson Dorrance was one of the chief architects of the national team's amazing success. He began coaching the team in 1986 and he served in that role for eight years before retiring in 1994 to concentrate on his work as the Tar Heels' head coach. During Dorrance's coaching tenure, he led the U.S. National Team to a record of 65-22-2.

In 1991, Dorrance took the U.S. Team to China to compete in the first-ever Women's World Cup. Nine of the 18 players on the team were Carolina graduates or active UNC players at that time, including team captain April Heinrichs, a 1986 alumna of Carolina. The Americans won that initial World Cup, beating Norway 2-1 in the championship match.

Although the U.S. would be dethroned by eventual champion Norway four years later in the 1995 Women's World Cup semifinals and had to settle for the bronze medal, the Americans came back to claim the 1996 Olympic gold medal in women's soccer. The U.S. defeated Norway in sudden death overtime in the semifinals and then downed China in the gold medal match 2-1 before a capacity crowd at the University of Georgia's Sanford Stadium. That U.S. Olympic team featured seven Carolina players.

The U.S. National Team took home the silver medal at the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia with six more Tar Heels on that team. The National Team won the bronze medal at the 2003 World Cup with six Carolina players on that squad and it captured bronze again at the 1996 World Cup.

Heinrichs' greatness is also evidenced by her place in the Carolina record books. She shares the school record for assists in a game with five against Warren Wilson on October 29, 1983. She is second in Carolina history in scoring with 225 points. Her 87 goals are third in school history, and she is also tied for eighth in assists with 51.

Every great story has a great beginning. April Heinrichs was the first of the truly great players in Carolina's storied women's soccer history. She was also the first true superstar in women's soccer worldwide.

Heinrichs was named a first-team All-America forward in 1984, 1985 and 1986 by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. She was also a third-team All-America in 1983.

The Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America named her National Player of the Year in both 1984 and 1986.

Heinrichs particularly excelled in postseason play for the Tar Heels. She was named to the All-Tournament Team at the 1983, 1984, 1985 and 1986 NCAA Tournaments. In 1984, she was the overall Most Valuable Player of the NCAA Tournament. In 1985 and 1986, she was the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the NCAA Tournament. Heinrichs' performances in those tournaments helped the Tar Heels win the NCAA championship in 1983, 1984 and 1986. Carolina was the NCAA runnerup team in 1985. Her No. 2 uniform was the first to be retired by the Carolina women's soccer program.

In each of her four seasons Heinrichs led the Tar Heels in scoring – in 1983 with 47 points, in 1984 with 59 points, in 1985 with 50 points and in 1986 with 69 points.

Soccer America recognized her as the Player of the Decade for the 1980s.

Success continued for Heinrichs even after her time in Chapel Hill was over. She was a member of the U.S. Women's National Team from 1986-91 earning 47 caps and scoring 37 goals.

After Heinrichs' playing days, she made a transition into the coaching arena. In 1996, she served as assistant coach for the U.S. Olympic Team, which won the gold medal in Atlanta, Ga. She was the head coach of the U.S. Women's National Team from 2000-05, leading the team to an 87-17-20 record in five years. Heinrichs coached the team to an Olympic gold medal in 2004 in her last major competition as the squad's head coach.

Her first college coaching position was as head coach at Princeton University in 1990, where she compiled an 8-6-1 mark.

She then moved on to become head coach at the University of Maryland for five years from 1991-95, compiling a mark of 56-40-7. In 1995, she was named Atlantic Coast Conference Coach of the Year after leading the Terrapins to their first ever NCAA Tournament appearance.

After her stint in College Park, she served four years as the head women's soccer coach at the University of Virginia. She went 52-27-7 there with four NCAA Tournament appearances. Heinrichs was named head coach of the U.S. National Team in early 2000 and she retired at the conclusion of the 2004 campaign. She then coached for one year at UC-Irvine in 2006 before accepting a post with the United States Olympic Committee in December 2006 as Performance Services Team Leader.

Heinrichs served as the captain of the 1991 U.S. Women's National Team which won the championship at the first ever Women's World Cup in China.

A native of Denver, Colo., she graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1986.

Shannon Higgins won two national player of the year honors during her four years at the University of North Carolina. Soccer America honored her with its award in 1988 and the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America gave her its award in 1989. She also won the Honda Soccer Award in 1989.

Higgins played for the U.S. Women's National Team from 1987-91 and had a total of 51 caps. She was a member of the United States Team which won the 1991 Women's World Cup title in China.

Her career continued as a coach of the sport on the collegiate level. She was the head coach for seven years at George Washington University and six more at the University of Maryland before retiring from coaching following the 2004 season. Her seven Maryland teams combined to go 62-51-10. Her final Terrapin squad advanced to the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament.

Before her time with the Terps, Higgins served as the head women's soccer coach at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., where she posted a 69-59-11 record in seven years.

Higgins is married to Sasho Cirovski, the head men's soccer coach at the University of Maryland.

As a collegian, Higgins rather remarkably scored the game-winning goal in the 1987, 1988 and 1989 NCAA championship games.

She was named a first-team All-America midfielder by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America in both 1988 and 1989.

Higgins was also named to the first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference squad in 1987, 1988 and 1989, winning the ACC Player of the Year award in 1989.

The University of North Carolina honored her with the Patterson Medal in 1990 as the outstanding senior student-athlete at the school.

Also in 1990, Higgins won the first-ever Mary Garber Award given by the Atlantic Coast Sports Media Association to the female athlete of the year in the conference.

Higgins had a memorable career in postseason play for the Tar Heels.

She was named to the All-Tournament Team at the NCAA Tournament in 1987, 1988 and 1989. Higgins was the Offensive Most Valuable Player of the 1988 NCAA Tournament after she scored three goals in Carolina's 4-1 victory over NC State in the championship game.

In each of her four years at Carolina (1986-89), the women's soccer team captured the NCAA championship.

She also played on Tar Heel teams which captured ACC championships in 1987 and 1989.

Her jersey number (No. 3) is one of 15 retired numbers in Carolina women's soccer history.

Higgins is ranked 15th in career scoring at Carolina with 129 points and she is 20th in goals scored at Carolina with 39. She is tied for eighth in Carolina history with 51 assists.

In 1988, she led the ACC in scoring with 43 points. For three consecutive seasons, she led the conference in assists. She had 11 assists in 1987, 17 assists in 1988, and 18 assists in 1989.

The National Soccer Coaches Association of America named her a first-team All-America in both 1987 and 1988 and a second-team All-America in 1989.

She earned first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference accolades as a junior in 1988 and again as a senior in 1989.

She was named the Most Valuable Defensive Player of the 1988 NCAA Tour-namment as the Tar Heels defeated arch-rival NC State 4-1 in the championship game after having tied the Wolfpack twice earlier in the season, once in the regular season and once in the ACC Tournament championship game. Her defensive prowess was evidenced by her four appearances on the NCAA All-Tournament team as a Tar Heel defender.

Werden began competing internationally while she was still a Tar Heel. She competed on the 1988 United States Team which won the gold medal at the Goodwill Games in New York.

Overbeck was also a member of the 1991 U.S. National Team which won the World Cup in China. She was captain of the 1995 U.S. World Cup squad, which finished third.

In 1996, she was captain of the U.S. National Team which won the gold medal at the Olympic Games in Atlanta, Ga.

In 1999, she started 22 games for the U.S. National Team, playing 1,764 minutes as she co-captained the United States Team that won the World Cup championship. She converted on the first penalty kick in the United States' victory over China in the World Cup championship match. The U.S. won the penalty kick shootout 5-4 after battling the Chinese to a scoreless tie after 120 minutes of regulation time and overtime.

Overbeck is now in her 19th year as an assistant coach at Duke University. She also played for the Carolina Courage in the WUSA, leading the team to the Founder's Cup crown in 2002. She was a charter member in the founding of the pro league.

She graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1990 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology.

Werden is a native of Dallas, Texas, where she attended Richardson High School. She was born May 9, 1968 in Pasadena, Calif.

Her husband, Greg Overbeck, co-owns several restaurants in the Triangle, including Squid's, 411 West and Spanky's in Chapel Hill. They have a 12-year-old son, Jackson, and a six-year-old daughter, Carson. They live in Carboro, N.C.

Overbeck was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame on August 28, 2006.

Carla Werden is a proven winner. She is one of only three women in history to win an NCAA title, an Olympic gold medal, a Women's World Cup championship and the Women's United Soccer Federation's Founders Cup championship, joining fellow Tar Heel stars Tisha Venturini and Mia Hamm in that category.

Werden put her stamp on Carolina history early in her career, winning 1986 Freshman All-America honors from Soccer America magazine.

While she had an outstanding career at Carolina, her level of success playing for the U.S. National Team in international competition was truly remarkable and became the hallmark of her playing career. She took her playing level and her leadership capabilities to another level when suiting up for the United States.

As a member of the U.S. National Team from 1988-2000, she was the sixth-most capped player in the team's history at the time of her retirement, appearing in 168 games. Despite having now been retired for nine years, she still ranks 11th all-time in National Team caps.

Winning has never been foreign to Werden, who played on four University of North Carolina women's teams from 1986-89 that won NCAA championships. The Tar Heels did not lose a single game during her four-year tenure, compiling a record of 89-0-6 from 1986-89. Those teams were a spotless 12-0 in NCAA Tournament play.

Kristine Lilly's long tenure on the U.S. National Team has earned her the distinction of being one of the most durable, most versatile and certainly one of the most outstanding players in women's soccer history. As of September 1, 2009, Lilly had 342 caps with the U.S. National Team, 67 more than Mia Hamm's 275 career caps which rank second.

Lilly played in her fifth World Cup in China in September 2007. As of September 1, 2009, she was the second-leading scorer in U.S. National Team history in goals with 129 and in points with 361, ranking only behind her former Tar Heel teammate Hamm in those two statistics.

Lilly was twice named National Player of the Year while at Carolina, winning scoring with 20 goals and 12 assists for 52 points.

When it comes to experience in international competition, Lilly has no equal. As of September 1, 2009, she has participated in more than 83 percent of the matches the U.S. women's team has ever played. That gives her more international match appearances than any other player – man or woman – in the history of the U.S. National Team.

Her career international assist total of 103, point total of 361 and goal total of 129 all rank second only to Mia Hamm in U.S. National Team history as of September 1, 2009. The U.S. Soccer Federation named Lilly its Player of the Year in 1993.

Lilly was a member of the U.S. National Team, which won the Gold Medal at the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta, Ga. and the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece.

converted a key penalty kick in the final against China as well as clearing what would have been a sure Chinese goal off the goal line in the overtime.

Her jersey number 15 has been retired by the University of North Carolina. She received her degree from Carolina in Radio, Television & Motion Pictures.

Lilly played for the Boston Breakers in the WUSA for three seasons. She returned to professional soccer in 2009 as a member of the new Boston Breakers franchise in WPS.

She also helped the U.S. win the 1999 World Cup just as she had in 1991. Lilly scored two goals and had one assist during the 1999 competition. She

In 1993, she earned the Patterson Medal given to the most outstanding senior athlete at the University of North Carolina.

She was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1991 while winning the ACC Tournament's Most Valuable Player award in 1990.

Soccer America named her the National Freshman of the Year in 1989.

In postseason play, Lilly was named the Most Outstanding Offensive Player in the 1989 and 1990 NCAA Tournaments. She scored 10 goals and had seven assists for 27 points in nine career NCAA Tournament matches. The Tar Heels won national championships in all four of her years at Carolina (1989-92).

UNC compiled a record of 93-1-2 during Lilly's tenure at Chapel Hill.

She is fifth in school history in scoring with 197 points, fourth in UNC history in goals with 78 and tied for 17th in assists with 41.

In 1990, Lilly ranked second in the nation in

No one would argue against the fact Mia Hamm has attained the status of being recognized as the world's most talented and equally famous women's soccer player in the history of the game.

FIFA named her the Women's World Player of the Year in 2001 and 2002, the first two years in which the world's governing body had bestowed the award on a woman.

Her fame has expanded well off the pitch. People Magazine named her one of the 50 Most Beautiful People in the World in 1997. Several corporations have contracted with her for major endorsements. Among them are Gatorade, Pepsi-Cola and Pert shampoo.

Nike named the largest building at its world headquarters in Beaverton, Ore., after her in 1999.

She was one of the key players and stars of the U.S. team which won the title at the 1999 World Cup, an event which propelled the popularity of women's soccer in the United States to previously unheard of heights. Hamm converted a key penalty kick in the United States' double overtime victory over China in the championship game.

Hamm was the 1994 recipient of the Honda Broderick Cup given to the Most Outstanding Female Athlete in all of college sports. She is the only Tar Heel athlete to ever win the award. She also received the 1994 Patterson Medal as the outstanding senior athlete at the University of North Carolina.

The Atlantic Coast Conference honored Hamm with the 1993 and 1994 Mary Garber Awards as the ACC's Female Athlete of the Year. She also won the ACC Player of the Year award three times and was a three-time unanimous first-team All-America selection.

Hamm helped lead the Tar Heels to the NCAA championship in 1989, 1990, 1992 and 1993. She was the unanimous choice as college soccer's National Player of the Year in 1992 and 1993. Hamm also won the NCAA Tournament MVP awards for offense in both 1992 and 1993. In 1989 and 1992, she was the MVP of the ACC Tournament.

A lethal weapon for the Tar Heels on offense, Hamm led the nation in scoring in 1990, 1992 and 1993, setting the NCAA single-season record for scoring with 97 points in 1992. Hamm also holds the UNC record for single-season assists with 33 in 1992. She scored 32 goals in 1992, the second-highest single season total in UNC history.

Before retiring from soccer at the conclusion of the 2004 season, Hamm had been a member of the U.S. National Team since 1987 and she started for the U.S. when it won its first-ever World Cup title, played in China in 1991. She was 15 years old when she first played for the team, making her the youngest woman ever to play for the National Team.

She ended 2004 as the world's all-time leading scorer with 158 goals and 144 assists for 460 points. Amazingly, her assist total alone would rank her as the ninth highest scorer in U.S. women's soccer history.

Her 158 international goals are the most of all-time, man or woman. She went out on a high by winning her second Olympic gold medal in Athens, Greece in 2004.

UNC's highest honorary society, the Order of the Golden Fleece, inducted her into its ranks in 1993.

In 1999, Hamm established the Mia Hamm Foundation to raise funds and awareness for bone marrow transplant patients and families and to provide more opportunities for young girls in athletics.

She received her degree in political science. She is married to Nomar Garciaparra, All-Star infielder for the Oakland Athletics. They have twin daughters born in 2007.

Tisha Venturini won championships at every level of her highly successful playing career. She is one of only three women in history to win an NCAA title, an Olympic gold medal, a Women's World Cup championship and the WUSA's Founders Cup championship. The others were also Tar Heels — Mia Hamm and Carla Overbeck.

Her career at the University of North Carolina got off to a fast start by winning Soccer America's National Freshman of the Year accolade in 1991 to complement her Atlantic Coast Conference Freshman of the Year award. That season she led both the ACC and the NCAA in scoring with 21 goals and 16 assists for 58 points.

Venturini would go on to be the unanimous se-and, in each of her four seasons, she made the NCAA All-Tournament Team.

A versatile player, she won the Most Outstanding Defensive Player of the 1991 NCAA Tournament accolade and the Most Outstanding Offensive Player of the 1994 NCAA Tournament award.

In 14 NCAA Tournament games, she had seven goals and added nine assists for 23 points.

Venturini established a reputation as a clutch player, scoring three goals against Duke in the 1994 ACC Tournament championship game and two goals against Notre Dame in the 1994 NCAA title game. In those two title-de-terminating games in the 1994 campaign her performances were at another level of play and both came against teams that that befuddled the Tar Heels in the regular season. In fact, Duke had between the Tar Heels in the regular season and Notre Dame had tied the Tar Heels.

In each of her four seasons at Carolina, the Tar Heels won the NCAA championship and those four squads compiled a stunned for the U.S. team lead in scoring in the 1995 World Cup squad with three goals.

In the 1996 Olympics, she helped the U.S. capture the gold medal in Atlanta, Ga. She was also a member of the 1999 U.S. World Cup championship team. Venturini scored two goals versus North Korea in the last round of pool play.

Overall, she had 132 caps for the National Team, scoring 44 goals.

She played for the San Jose Cyber Rays in the WUSA for three years, capturing a title in 2001.

lection as the 1994 National Player of the Year after leading Carolina to a fourth straight national championship. She was a recipient of the Hermann Trophy that year and was also named Player of the Year by the Missouri Athletic Club, the Honda Soccer Award, the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America, Soccer America, Soccer News and College Sports.

She was the recipient of the 1995 Patterson Medal given to the most outstanding senior athlete at the University of North Carolina.

In 1995, she also won the Mary Garber Award as the Most Outstanding Female Athlete in the ACC. She was the ACC Player of the Year in 1994 and was also named first-team All-ACC and first-team All-South four times in her career.

Venturini was at her absolute best in the post-season. She was named the ACC Tournament's Most Valuable Player in 1991, 1993 and 1994, ending cumulative record of 97-1-1.

She is sixth all-time in UNC history with 69 goals and tied for eighth all-time in assists with 51. She is tied for seventh in points with 189. Her 10 goals and four assists gave her 24 points in nine ACC Tournament games — good enough for the all-time leading career scoring record in the event until Tar Heel forward Robin Confer shattered that record in the 1997 tournament.

Venturini also went on to great success in international play for the U.S. National Team.

She started at center midfield for the U.S. National Team in the 1995 Women's World Cup, and University of North Carolina head coach Anson Dorrance called Debbie Keller possibly the finest leader he has seen in his quarter plus century of coaching at Carolina.

In 1995, she was named Co-National Player of the Year by Soccer Digest, and, in 1996, she was named National Player of the Year by Soccer America and Soccer Buzz.

Keller received the Patterson Medal, given to the most outstanding senior athlete at the University of North Carolina, in 1997.

UNC won the NCAA championship with Keller as a member of the team in 1993, 1994 and 1996. She co-captained the 1996 team and played all 210 minutes of the NCAA semifinals and championship game that year. In the championship game, she scored the game-winning goal at the 110:56 mark. After the tournament, she was named its Most Valuable Offensive Player.

In 1996, she was a first-team All-America selection by Soccer America, Soccer News and Soccer Buzz. In 1995, she was a first-team All-

America honoree by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America and Soccer News. In 1994 and 1996, she was a second-team All-America selection by the NSCAA.

Keller was a finalist for the prestigious Honda Soccer Award in 1996.

With 102 games played, she was the former NCAA career record holder in that category until it was broken a year later by fellow Tar Heel Robin Confer who played in 107 matches. Keller ranks sixth in UNC history in career points with 191, eighth in career goals with 67 and fifth in career assists with 57.

Over the course of her career, she scored 16 game-winning goals.

The Atlantic Coast Conference tabbed her as a first-team All-ACC selection in 1994 and 1995. She was also the Most Valuable Player of the 1995 ACC Tournament.

The Tar Heels won four ACC Championships while Keller played at UNC.

In 1996, she was a finalist for both the Hermann Trophy and the Missouri Athletic Club Sports Foundation's Player of the Year Award.

Sports Illustrated featured her in its Faces in the Crowd section of a December issue in 1996.

She scored all three goals for the East Team in the 1997 Umbro Select Senior All-Star Game in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The East team defeated the West Team 3-0.

Soccer Buzz gave her its National Sportsmanship Award in 1996.

From 1995-98, Keller earned 46 caps with the U.S.

National Team which ranks her 39th all-time in that category in statistics through September 1, 2009.

history. Also that season, she had 22 assists, eighth most in a single season. In 1995, the 18 assists she recorded that season are tied for the 12th most in a single campaign in Carolina women's soccer lore.

As a senior, she was named the National Player of the Year by Soccer Buzz Internet magazine and Soccer News magazine. Confer was also a finalist for the 1997 Hermann Trophy and a semifinalist for the 1997 Missouri Athletic Club Sports Foundation Player of the Year award.

Confer established an NCAA record for games played in a career with 107 appearances from 1994-97, breaking Debbie Keller's old NCAA record of 102 set the year before. Confer never missed a game in her career at Carolina. She shares the Carolina record for most games played and most games started in a season with 28 in 1997.

An inspired performance in the 1997 NCAA Tournament led to her being named the Most Valuable Offensive Player of that competition. She scored a goal late in the second half to lift UNC to a 2-1 NCAA semifinal win over Santa Clara. Two days later, she scored the insurance goal in the waning minutes in the Tar Heels' 2-0 victory over Connecticut in the championship game.

In 1997, Soccer America, Soccer News, Soccer Buzz and Soccer Times all named her a first-team All-America selection. She was named a second-team All-America by the National Soccer

All-ACC in 1994 and 1996. She was the ACC Tournament's MVP in 1996. The Tar Heels won four ACC championships and three NCAA championships (1994, 1996 and 1997) during her stint in Chapel Hill. She has more career points in ACC Tournament games than any other player in history with 31 and more goals with 13.

Her 27 game-winning goals are the most in UNC history. Confer netted 11 game-winners in 1995, the most in a single season.

Soccer Buzz named her the 1997 Southeast Region Offensive Player of the Year and Soccer News named her the 1997 Southeast Region Player of the Year.

After a stint as an assistant coach to Patrick Baker at Florida State University, Confer is currently on Baker's staff at the University of Georgia.

One of the most gifted women's soccer players in NCAA history, Robin Confer had an uncanny ability to find the back of the goal throughout her Tar Heel career. She was a pure finisher and that was reflected both in her career scoring statistics and the number of game-winning goals she tallied in her college days.

She is ranked fourth in Carolina history in total points with 209 and is the fifth best goal-scorer in school history with 77 tallies. Her 55 assists are good enough for the sixth most in Tar Heel women's soccer lore.

In 1997, she had 62 points – a total tying her for the 10th most points in a season in Carolina

Small in stature, but big in heart, defender Staci Wilson was impossible to intimidate on the pitch. She was tenacious in her desire to win. She is remembered as one of the toughest defenders in the history of both Carolina and NCAA women's soccer. Wilson always made the difficult tackle and pursued every loose ball with ferocious intensity.

Wilson was also respected as a top offensive threat from her backfield position and she was always successful at jump starting the Tar Heel attack from the back.

She helped the Tar Heels win four Atlantic Coast Conference championships from 1994 through 1997 and three NCAA championships in 1994, 1996 and 1997.

In 1995, she was the Co-National Player of the Year as named by Soccer Digest.

In her first season at UNC, she was named the National Freshman Player of the Year by Soccer America magazine in 1994.

As a senior in 1997, she was named a first-team All-America by Soccer America, Soccer Buzz and Soccer Times and a second-team All-America by Soccer News and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America/Umbro. In her junior season in 1996, she was a coaches' association first team All-America and was named a second-team All-America by Soccer Buzz and a third-team All-America by Soccer News. Her 1995 campaign earned her a first-team All-America selection by the national soccer coaches association, Soccer America and Soccer News. As a freshman in 1994, she was a first-team Soccer News All-America.

Wilson was a first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference defender from 1994-1996 and made the second-team All-ACC Team in 1997. She was named to the All-ACC Tournament Team in 1994, 1995 and 1997 as Carolina won championships each of those seasons.

She also earned honors as a member of the NCAA's All-Tournament Team at the 1994, 1995 and 1997 tournaments.

The U.S. Olympic Team tapped her as a reserve for the 1996 gold medal team in Atlanta, Ga.

She played for the U.S. National Team in 1995 and 1996 and earned 14 caps, while starting six games.

In the Women's United Soccer Association, she was a starting defender for the Carolina Courage, winning a Founder's Cup title in 2002.

Playing high school and club soccer in Northern Virginia, she was one of the top-ranked players in the United States' high school ranks when she was recruited by the Tar Heels in 1993-94.

Dynamic forward Cindy Parlow was the youngest player to ever win both a women's World Cup title and an Olympic gold medal. She is the sixth-leading goal scorer in the history of the U.S. Women's National Team despite having played on the team for only nine years (1996-2004). She totaled 181 points in her career and also ranks sixth all-time in goals with 75 as of September 1, 2009.

As a standout player at the University of North Carolina, Parlow was named National Player of the Year three different years by multiple organizations, earning top honors in 1996, 1997 and 1998.

Parlow had an immediate impact for the Tar Heels as a freshman in 1995. Soccer News and Soccer America both named her the National Freshman Player of the Year and, along with the National Soccer Coaches Association of America/Umbro, they also picked her as a first-team All-America. Parlow also garnered first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference and ACC Freshman of the Year honors. She scored 19 goals and had 13 assists for 51 points in 26 games during her inaugural year wearing Carolina Blue & White.

As a sophomore, Soccer News magazine named her National Player of the Year. She was also a finalist for the Hermann Trophy and the Missouri Athletic Club Player of the Year Award. She was again chosen as a first-team All-America by Soccer News, Soccer America, the NSCAA/Umbro and Soccer Buzz as well as being named first-team All-ACC. She had 41 points on 15 goals and 11 assists in 25 games.

As a junior, Parlow won the Hermann Trophy and National Player of the Year honors from the Missouri Athletic Club Sports Foundation and Soccer Times magazine.

She was North Carolina's leading scorer with 44 points, netting 13 goals and notching 18 assists while playing in 26 games.

In the 1997 NCAA Tournament championship game, Parlow scored the game-winning goal in a 2-0 victory over Connecticut. With four assists against Wake Forest in a first-round win, she set the NCAA Tournament record for assists in a single game, a record broken in 2005 by UNC's Kacey White when she had five versus Pepperdine.

Soccer News, Soccer America, Soccer Buzz, Soccer Times and NSCAA/Umbro all selected her as a first-team All-America. She was also selected as first-team All-ACC and the MVP of the ACC Tournament in 1997.

In her senior campaign, Parlow was honored with the Mary Garber Award as Female-Athlete-of-the-Year in the ACC.

She tallied 21 goals and had 11 assists for a total of 53 points. She led North Carolina in games played and games started with 26, shots with 107, goals with 21, points with 53 and game-winning goals with seven.

Several organizations honored her as the nation's best player in 1998. She won the Hermann Trophy and was named Player of the Year by the Missouri Athletic Club Foundation, Soccer News and College Soccer Weekly Online.

She was named a first-team All-America by the NSCAA/Umbro, Soccer America, Soccer News, ESPN.com/Soccer Times, Soccer Buzz and College Soccer Weekly Online. The ACC named Parlow its Player of the Year and also selected her as a first-team all-conference player.

She scored 189 points in her UNC career. That equals the seventh highest total in North Carolina women's soccer history. She scored 68 goals, which ranks as the seventh highest total in North Carolina history. Her 53 assists are also the seventh highest total in school history. Her 101 games started equal the second most in school history. She finished her career with 12 game-winning goals.

In her four seasons at UNC, the Tar Heels went 102-3-1. Teams she played on won the ACC regular season championship four years in a row from 1995 to 1998, NCAA championships in 1996 and 1997 and ACC Tournament championships four years from 1995 through 1998. She was part of a team that was the NCAA semifinalist in 1995 and NCAA runnerup in 1998.

Parlow was a starter for the 1999 U.S. World Cup Women's Soccer Team which won the gold medal. She played with the U.S. National Team from 1996-2004 and captured two Olympic gold medals and one World Cup title. She also played for the U.S. squad which won the gold medal at the 1998 Goodwill Games in New York City.

Parlow had 158 caps with the U.S. National team from 1996-2004, scoring 75 goals. Parlow played for the Atlanta Beat in the WUSA for three seasons from 2001-03.

While at Carolina, Lorrie Fair was one of the nation's top defenders. Entering her senior year, she was a preseason All-America selection by Soccer Buzz, Soccer America and College Soccer Weekly Online. She fulfilled that promise by going on to win National Player of the Year honors following the Tar Heels' 1999 NCAA championship season.

Fair was a four-year letter winner at Carolina, beginning her career as a midfielder and finishing up her last three years as a standout defender.

Fair already had extensive experience with the U.S. National Team before she excelled as a member of the U.S.'s 1999 World Cup championship team. She had trained and played with the National Team during the Victory Tour presented by Nike in 1997. She was also selected for the Under-21 Women's National Team, which played in the Nordic Cup in Denmark in 1997. In 1998, she was again on the Under-21 roster for the Nordic Cup in Holland.

After a solid freshman year, Fair was one of the nation's most improved players in 1997 and she followed that year of growth with brilliant junior and senior seasons.

After graduating from Carolina, Fair was one of the founding members of the WUSA as an all-star player for the Philadelphia Charge.

Her twin sister, Ronnie, played at Stanford and was also on the 1997 and 1998 U.S. women's Under-21 national team rosters with Lorrie.

Fair's freshman season at Carolina was impressive. Soccer News named her a second-team All-America and a freshman All-America, while Soccer America named her to its freshman All-America Team. Soccer Buzz named her a first-team Freshman All-America and a Southeast Region All-Freshman selection. In the postseason, she earned All-Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, All-NCAA Tournament and All-NCAA Final Four honors.

Her sophomore season saw her start all 28 games for the Tar Heels, scoring eight goals and notching seven assists for a total of 23 points. She scored goals or had assists in 15 different games but never had a two-goal or two-assist effort.

Against California and Duke, she recorded game-winning goals. In the national semifinal victory against Santa Clara, she tied the game with an early second-half goal.

She was a semifinalist for the Missouri Athletic Club Player of the Year Award and was named first-team All-America by Soccer News, second-team All-America by Soccer Times and third-team All-America by Soccer Buzz. Soccer News also named her to its sophomore All-America team.

In the 1997 NCAA Tournament, she was an all-tournament selection and she was also a 1997 first-team All-ACC selection.

As a junior in 1998, Fair was again a semifinalist for the Missouri Athletic Club's Player of the Year Award. ESPN.com/Soccer Times named her the National Defender of the Year. The National Soccer Coaches Association of America/Umbro, Soccer America, Soccer News, ESPN.com/Soccer Times, Soccer Buzz and College Soccer Weekly Online all selected Fair as a first-team All-America.

Soccer Buzz honored Fair as the Southeast Region Defensive Player of the Year. She was also a first-team All-ACC selection. Against Wake Forest, she scored two of her five goals on the season and against San Francisco she had three assists. In the ACC Tournament final, she scored a goal versus Clemson.

Despite an injury-plagued season her senior year, Fair still captured the Honda Soccer Award, given to the top player in college soccer. She also garnered the 1999 ACC Player of the Year award. For the third consecutive year she earned a spot on the first-team All-ACC squad.

She was a consensus first-team All-America selection, earning honors from the NSCAA, College Soccer Online, Soccer Times, Soccer Buzz and Soccer America.

Fair played on her third NCAA championship team at Carolina and was named defensive MVP in the NCAA College Cup.

Fair spent time on the injury list but still played in 22 matches, spending some time at forward during her recovery and moving back to the defense for the stretch run of the season.

In 2002, Fair played in 18 contests and started 10 times for the U.S. Women's National Team. She earned her 100th cap against Scotland on September 8, 2002. As one of the team's brightest, youngest stars, she was a consistent starter for the team from 2000-02. In the 1999 World

A four-year letter winner for the Tar Heels, Meredith Florance started as a sophomore, junior and senior at Carolina and in her senior year she copped National Player of the Year honors. She finished her career in 2000 ranked in a tie for 10th place in career goals at the University with 59.

Florance was arguably one of the top high school players coming out of the prep ranks in 1997 from her hometown of Dallas, Texas.

Among her great skills, Florance possessed incredible speed, explosive power, strength and intimidation. Moreover, she was a beautiful striker of the ball.

As a freshman, she played in all 28 games for the Tar Heels, including starts against Florida and against SMU in her hometown of Dallas.

She scored 10 goals and had four assists for 24 points, notching a hat trick in her first-ever home game at Fetzer Field against Tennessee. She also had two goals against St. Mary's and two assists versus NC State.

In NCAA Tournament games against Wake Forest and Florida, she had one goal and one assist. Soccer Buzz named her a third-team Freshman All-America and to the All-Southeast Region Freshman Team.

Starting in all 26 games for UNC as a sophomore, Florance scored 10 goals and had 11 assists for 31 points. That ranked her as the fourth-highest scorer on the team in 1998. Versus San Francisco, Maryland and Portland, she netted game-winning goals. The dramatic goal against Portland came in the 150th minute of a quadruple overtime NCAA semifinal game. She had two-assist efforts against Hartford and against Duke in the ACC Tournament quarterfinals. Soccer Buzz named her to its third-team All-Southeast Region squad. She also made the All-Tournament Team at the 1998 NCAA College Cup.

Her junior season was tremendous, both for the Tar Heels as a team, and for Florance individually. College Soccer Online named her an honorable mention All-America and Soccer Buzz named her second-team All-Southeast Region.

She was named to the NCAA All-Tournament Team after scoring the game-winning goal against Notre Dame in the title game. She was also named second-team All-ACC. At the Notre Dame Key Bank Classic, she was named to the All-Tournament team.

She started all 24 games for the Tar Heels that season, scoring 13 goals and serving up nine assists for 35 points. Two of those goals were game-winners, and, ironically, both came against Notre Dame. She had two goals in a second-half comeback win against Duke.

As a senior, Florance firmly established herself as one of the best players in the country.

She finished fourth in the nation and first in the ACC in goals scored with 26, matching the sixth-highest total in a season for a Tar Heel. She also led the conference in scoring with 60 points.

Soccer Times named her the National Player of the Year and she also received the Honda Award as the top player in the nation.

Florance scored five game-winning goals, and, in the NCAA championship game, she netted a goal that tied the game against UCLA 1-1 with 14:49 to play. UNC eventually went on to win 2-1, claiming its 17th national championship. In the third round of the NCAA Tournament, she scored the game-winner against Virginia and in the quarterfinal match against Connecticut, she scored the first two goals of the game in a 3-0 win.

was a consensus first-team All-America, a first-team All-ACC selection, the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the NCAA College Cup, the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament and the Southeast Region Offensive Player of the Year. Over the course of the season, she was named the MVP of four different tournaments.

In international experience, she played for the 1997 U.S. Under-21 team in the Nordic Cup that competed in Denmark. She again competed with the under-21 team in 1999 at the World Championships in Iceland.

Catherine Reddick did not earn her first starting assignment in a University of North Carolina uniform until the final game of her freshman year which also happened to be the NCAA championship contest against the UCLA Bruins in 2000. Reddick's performance in that game was certainly an indication of things to come. Not only did Reddick score the game-winning goal with 7:41 to play, she was also named the Most Valuable Defensive Player of the NCAA College Cup as a freshman first-time starter.

A few months later, Carolina alumna April Heinrichs, then the head coach of the U.S. Women's National Team, tapped Reddick for her first National Team cap. Almost from the start, Reddick found herself in the National Team starting lineup on defense as she has gone on to earn 130 caps through matches of September 1, 2009 while scoring 11 goals. In the process, Reddick earned starting spots for the U.S. in the 2003 World Cup where the Americans took third place as well as on the 2004 gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic Team squad. She was a member of the 2007 World Cup Team which placed third but she missed the 2008 Olympics because of injury.

As Reddick matured into a star of the U.S. National Team, she continued her playing days at Carolina and despite missing much of her junior and senior years because of her National Team commitments, Reddick developed into one of the top collegiate defenders in history. She culminated her career by being named the National Player of the Year following the 2003 season as she won the Honda Soccer Award as well as the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy. She was also one of the five finalists for the 2004 Honda Broderick Cup as the outstanding collegiate female athlete in America during the 2003-04 school year.

After being named a first-team freshman All-America in 2000, Reddick went on to become one of Carolina's most decorated players in history during her final three years. She was a consensus first-team All-America in 2001, 2002 and 2003 as one of the top defenders in the college game. In each of those years, she was also named first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference.

As a senior, Reddick was limited to playing in only 13 matches because of her commitments while competing in the World Cup. She made the most of the opportunity to play for the Tar Heels, however, as she scored six goals and had five assists for 17 points. She scored the game-winning goal in the 2003 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championship game as the Tar Heels turned back Florida State 3-2. For the second time in her career Reddick was named the Most Valuable Defensive Player in the NCAA College Cup as she helped the Tar Heels outscore their six NCAA tourney opponents by a stunning 32-0 margin while anchoring a defense that barely let opponents shoot, much less score.

Reddick received first-team All-America accolades following her senior season from Soccer Buzz, Soccer Times, Soccer Post Magazine, College Sports Television, Soccer America and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. As a junior, she was named first-team All-America by Soccer Buzz, Soccer America and the NSCAA while as a sophomore she earned first-team All-America honors from Soccer Buzz and Soccer America and was tapped for the second team by the NSCAA.

Prior to winning two National Player of the Year awards in 2003, Reddick was a finalist for national awards in 2002 given by Soccer Buzz, the Honda Soccer Award and the Missouri Athletic Club Hermann Trophy.

Possessing what most likely was the strongest leg in the history of the women's college game, Reddick appeared in 77 games for the Tar Heels in her career and scored 20 goals while passing for 22 assists. It was not unusual for her to shoot with accuracy on the goal from near midfield.

She led the Tar Heels to ACC Tournament championships in each of her four years at Carolina from 2000 through 2003. She played on NCAA championship teams at Carolina in 2000 and 2003.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., Reddick was named a 1999 and 2000 Parade high school All-America in soccer coming out of Briarwood Christian School.

After getting married she now plays for the U.S. National Team as Cat Whitehill. She is in her first year as a member of the Washington Freedom of WPS.

The 2003 National Player of the Year as named by five organizations, forward Lindsay Tarpley had her No. 25 jersey number retired by the University of North Carolina in February 2006 after a star-studded career. Despite being injured for half of her junior year and for the start of her senior year, she finished with some of the most impressive career statistics in UNC history.

In 87 games, Tarpley finished her time at UNC with 59 goals, 59 assists and 177 points. She ranks 10th in career points in Tar Heel history, is tied for 10th in career goals with Meredith Florence and Heather O'Reilly and is third in career assists behind only Mia Hamm and Alyssa Ramsey.

In 2003, Tarpley led NCAA Division I in scoring with 73 points, the fourth most points in a season in UNC history. She had 23 goals that season, equaling the 11th most in a season in Tar Heel lore, and her 27 assists that year are the third most in a single campaign. She led the nation that year in total points and in assists per game.

Tarpley ended her career with several school records and an NCAA record to her credit based in large measure on her brilliant play in NCAA Tournament games. She holds UNC career records in NCAA games for goals with 16, assists with 19 and points with 51. The 19 assists are also the NCAA record in that category. In 2003, she set UNC school records for assists in a single NCAA Tournament with 11 and in points with 19.

She shares the school's NCAA Tournament records for goals in a game and points in a game. She scored three goals in an NCAA game three times and twice had seven points in an NCAA Tournament match. She also shares the ACC Tournament record for assists in a game with three.

Her career high for goals in a game came on October 14, 2003 when she scored four goals in a 6-0 victory over Wake Forest.

Tarpley's banner year was 2003 when she led Carolina to a 27-0 record and was a unanimous choice for first-team All-America honors, being named by every organization that named an All-America team. That season she also earned a quintet of national player of the year accolades, winning honors from Soccer America, Soccer Buzz, Soccer Times, Soccer Post and Sports Illustrated on Campus.

In 2003, she became the first player since Mia Hamm in 1993 to be named the ACC Player of the Year and the MVP of the ACC Tournament while also leading the ACC in scoring.

Tarpley was brilliant as a freshman in 2002, being named national freshman of the year by both Soccer Buzz and Soccer America. That year she was named the ACC Freshman of the Year and earned the first of two first-team All-ACC accolades. Most impressively, Tarpley won the prestigious award as the U.S. Soccer Chevrolet Young Female Athlete of the Year.

Tarpley has played as a member of the U.S. National Team since 2003 where she starts at a center midfield position. In 119 caps she has scored 30 goals through September 1, 2009.

No goal was bigger in her National Team career than the 25-yard strike which found the lower left corner of the net to give the U.S. a 1-0 lead in the 2004 Olympic gold medal match in Athens, Greece. The U.S. would go on to win the gold medal 2-1 on a golden goal by teammate Abby Wambach. Speaking of golden goals, Tarpley also had one of the biggest of those in U.S. youth soccer history. FIFA sponsored the first-ever U19 world championship in 2002 in Canada with Tarpley earning the captain's role for the U.S. squad. In sudden death overtime in the championship match, Tarpley pounced on her own rebound to give the U.S. the championship 1-0 in an exciting victory over the host Canadian side.

A native of Kalamazoo, Mich., Tarpley graduated from Portage Central High School in 2002 ranked as the No. 4 recruit in the nation that year by Soccer America. A two-time Parade All-America, she was named the national high school player of the year by Parade Magazine in 2002.

Tarpley graduated from UNC in 2006 with a degree in communications. As a senior she was an ESPN The Magazine Third-Team Academic All-America.

Tarpley currently plays for the Chicago Red Stars of WPS.

Heather O'Reilly's road to winning National Player of the Year honors in 2006 was almost derailed before she ever donned a North Carolina uniform. O'Reilly was the top-ranked recruit in the high school class of 2003 and she was already playing with the U.S. National Team as a high school senior in 2002 while attending East Brunswick (N.J.) High School.

O'Reilly was the surprise player in the National Team training camp in 2003, earning 10 caps as the team prepared to play that year in the World Cup which was to be held on American soil. There was a strong belief at the time that the high school senior had a good chance to knock a more experienced player off the World Cup roster. But on June 14, 2003, just 74 seconds into a friendly against Ireland in Salt Lake City, O'Reilly suffered a broken left fibula and her dream of making the World Cup team was dashed.

O'Reilly enrolled at Carolina that August as planned but now in the midst of rehabbing from a broken leg. Amazingly she was cleared to play 10 days before the Tar Heels' season opener that year and took the field for the first time in UNC's third game of the season. And thus started the college career of a dynamic forward who would lead the Tar Heels to two NCAA championships and three ACC championships. While in the midst of her time at Carolina she scored one of the most important goals in Olympic women's soccer history, sparking the U.S. to the Olympic gold medal in 2004 in Athens.

O'Reilly finished her career tied for 10th in goals at UNC with 59, 11th in points with 167 and 12th in assists with 49. Her career was capped in 2006 when she was named the national player of the year by Soccer America while also claiming the prestigious Honda Soccer Award. She was also named ESPN The Magazine's National Academic All-America of the Year for women's soccer, was a finalist for the prestigious Honda Broderick Cup and was the runnerup for the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's outstanding female athlete. She also won the Patterson Medal as UNC's outstanding senior female athlete in 2006-07.

O'Reilly was at her absolute best in leading Carolina to NCAA Championships in 2003 and 2006, both years being named the offensive MVP of the College Cup. She was the unanimous choice as national freshman player of the year in 2003 and then a consensus first-team All-America in her final three seasons. She was a finalist for multiple national player of the year honors in both 2004 and 2005 before breaking through to win two of the four major awards in 2006 and finishing only one point behind the winner for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy.

O'Reilly led the Tar Heels in scoring three straight years from 2004-06 and she was the third-leading scorer on the 2003 team that went 27-0. She had 15 goals, 14 assists and 44 points in NCAA Tournament games, second in Carolina history to Lindsay Tarpley in all three categories.

As she was rehabbing from the broken leg in 2003, O'Reilly entered the ACC Tournament having scored only five goals in the 16 regular-season games in which she had played. But she had three goals in the ACC Tournament and then exploded in the NCAA Tournament with an 18-point performance on eight goals and two assists. Those eight goals are the most in UNC history in a single NCAA Tournament.

In the summer of 2004, O'Reilly played with the U.S. National Team in Greece in the hopes of winning an Olympic gold medal. With the U.S. and Germany tied 1-1 in overtime of the semifinal game, O'Reilly blistered the back of the net off a Mia Hamm assist to catapult the Americans into the gold medal match and in the process avenging the U.S. loss to Germany in the 2003 World Cup semifinals. A few days later the college sophomore possessed an Olympic gold medal after the U.S. beat Brazil in overtime in the final match.

O'Reilly returned to Chapel Hill and led the Tar Heels in scoring with 37 points but Carolina fell in penalty kicks in the ACC Tournament final and then was upset in the NCAA round of 16. In 2005, O'Reilly again led the Tar Heels in scoring with 47 points and she was named the ACC Offensive Player of the Year while leading Carolina to an ACC Tournament championship. But a penalty kick setback in the NCAA quarterfinals denied Carolina a College Cup appearance for the second straight year.

O'Reilly returned as the captain of UNC's 2006 team and as a senior she was determined to go out a winner. After Carolina dropped its season opener at Texas A&M, she led the Heels to 27 straight wins and the national title. She was the offensive MVP of the College Cup after scoring four goals and adding six assists in NCAA play. She scored the insurance goal in the 2-0 NCAA semifinal win over UCLA, scored the first goal of the NCAA final against Notre Dame and then assisted on the eventual game-winning tally against the Fighting Irish.

Following her senior year she won the NCAA's prestigious Today's Top VIII Award. No Tar Heel student-athlete had won the award since 1984 and it was the crowning jewel of her college career. The award is the highest annually bestowed by the NCAA for athletic prowess, academic achievement and community service.

After settling for a bronze medal in the 2007 World Cup in China, O'Reilly and her American teammates returned to Beijing in 2008 and repeated as Olympic gold medalists, avenging the team's World Cup loss to Brazil in the gold medal match. O'Reilly was the highest-rated American player in the tournament in Soccer America's analysis. She scored a long distance goal against New Zealand in group play to help the Americans through to the quarterfinals and then salted away the U.S. win over Japan in the semifinals with a brilliant world class goal.

O'Reilly now plays for Sky Blue FC of the WPS.

Yael Averbuch's Career Statistics

At the conclusion of the 2008 women's soccer season at the University of North Carolina, senior midfielder Yael Averbuch of Upper Montclair, N.J., became the 15th Tar Heel in history to earn the right to have her uniform number retired as a National Player of the Year honoree. Beginning with the 2009 soccer campaign, no UNC player will henceforth wear the No. 17 jersey Averbuch

Averbuch was a national player of the year honoree when UNC won the national championship in 2006 and she co-captained the Tar Heel squad in 2008 when it again won the NCAA title.

In four years as a member of the University of North Carolina soccer team, Yael Averbuch helped lead the Tar Heels to two NCAA Championships and four Atlantic Coast Conference titles. At the same time, she excelled academically, maintaining a 3.7 grade point average while majoring in psychology.

Averbuch started a school-record 105 games during her career, never missing a game in her four years and starting each one. She finished her career scoring 32 goals and passing for 29 assists for a total of 93 career points.

Averbuch holds the record for scoring the fastest goal in collegiate women's soccer history. In a game on September 3, 2006 at Yale, Averbuch scored in only four seconds, sending the direct kick at the start of the game 55 yards from midfield directly in the Bulldogs' goal.

A three-time first-team All-America honoree and a three-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection, she was named national player of the year as a sophomore by Soccer Buzz magazine.

That same year she was the third highest vote getter for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy presented by the NSCAA. She was also the 2006 ACC's Offensive Player of the Year.

In December 2008, she was named a recipient of the NCAA's Today's Top VIII Award, an NCAA honor that each year recognizes eight student-athletes who are outstanding in athletics, academics, leadership and community service. She is only the third Tar Heels athlete to win the award since 1984 and the second UNC women's soccer player to win the honor in the last three years.

Averbuch was named the 2008 ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America of the Year for women's soccer, recognizing her as the top student-athlete in her sport. The award is voted on by the College Sports Information Directors of America. She was a first-team ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America in 2008 after being named to the second team in 2007 and the third team in 2008.

In 2008, she was also named the National Soccer Coaches Association of America Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

Averbuch was regularly named to the UNC Dean's List, was a three-time selection for the ACC Academic Honor Roll and she was the ACC Scholar-Athlete of the Year for women's soccer in 2007 and again in 2008. She was named to the ACC All-Academic Team each of her four years in a Tar Heel uniform.

Active in community outreach activities, Averbuch represents her team on UNC's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee. She is a member of the Carolina Leadership Academy's Veteran Leaders program and a recipient of its highest honor, the Three-Dimensional Leader Award. While a Tar Heel student, she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa while also being inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece.

Averbuch also represents the U.S. as a member of the Under-23 National Team. In 2007, she earned two caps while training with the full U.S. National Team. Beginning in the spring of 2009, she began play for Sky Blue FC of New Jersey in the inaugural season of Women's Professional Soccer (WPS).

"Yael possessed a work ethic second to none," said Tar Heel head coach Anson Dorrance. "She was a relentless attacker and defender. Her leadership skills were exemplary as she captained the team as a junior and senior. She comes from an outstanding family that imbued her with discipline, character and the drive to succeed academically and athletically."

"She is graduating with a degree in psychology with over a 3.7 GPA, is already playing professionally and she played on two NCAA championship teams. That is a resume to be proud of. A testament to her commitment to the game is the fact she started 105 straight games in college. That means a player is doing all the right things to take care of her body and mind away from the pitch. A record like that doesn't happen by accident."

Dick Baddour
• Director of Athletics

Goldsboro native and Tar Heel alumnus Dick Baddour is in his 13th year as Director of Athletics and his 43rd year at the University of North Carolina. He directs one of the most successful and respected athletic programs in the country, known for its commitment to academic integrity and competitive excellence in men's and women's sports.

During Baddour's tenure, the Tar Heels have won 11 national championships, including six in women's soccer, two each in men's basketball and field hockey and one in men's soccer, won two football bowl games and had numerous top 10 national finishes in Olympic sports. Nineteen different UNC men's and women's teams have combined for 61 Atlantic Coast Conference championships, more than any other school in the league over that span. UNC has led the league in the number of team championships in seven of the last 12 seasons.

Under Baddour's leadership, UNC has excelled as an overall athletic program. Carolina finished second in the 2008-09 Learfield Sports Directors' Cup, an award that measures NCAA postseason performance. It was the 10th time in 12 years the Tar Heels have finished first among ACC schools and the seventh top-10 finish for UNC in the last eight years, including top-four showings in 2006, 2007 and 2009.

Baddour graduated from UNC in 1966 and was appointed Assistant Dean of Men in 1967. He served as Assistant Dean of Admissions and Assistant Dean of the UNC School of Law and also earned a Master of Arts degree in education prior to joining the athletic department in 1986. In 2001, he received the Distinguished Service Medal from the UNC General Alumni Association.

Baddour and his wife, Lynda, have two sons, Allen and David, and a daughter, Jennifer, as well as six grandchildren: Henry, Jack, Lauren, Johnathan, William and Julia.

Dr. Beth Miller
• Sr. Associate Director of Athletics

Beth Miller is in her 25th year supervising North Carolina's highly-successful 26-team Olympic sports program and serves as UNC's Senior Woman Administrator.

A native of Landis, N.C., Miller is a 1968 alumna of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She has a master's from ASU and earned a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State in 1974.

From 1969-72, Miller served as the head volleyball and basketball coach at Appalachian State. She became head volleyball coach at UNC in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four consecutive ACC titles from 1980-83 and five postseason tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina from 1978-79.

In 1979, Miller was named UNC's Athletic Business Manager. She retired from coaching volleyball after 1983, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. She has overseen UNC's Olympic Sports program since 1985.

Miller serves on the NCAA Committee on Women's Athletics, as well as a number of Atlantic Coast Conference committees, including those for women's basketball, women's golf and volleyball. She also is a member of UNC's Housing Advisory Board.

In recognition of her outstanding service to Carolina, Miller was honored in April of 2008 as a recipient of the 2008 C. Knox Massey Distinguished Service Award, one of the most prestigious honors bestowed by the University of North Carolina.

Department of Athletics Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics has offered high quality athletic programs for many years. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to the University.

The mission of the Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop, and to serve the interests of the University by complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life. Coaches, as educators, are foundational to this process. In keeping with the University's efforts to offer programs of regional and national acclaim, the Department's athletic programs strive for competitive excellence within the Atlantic Coast Conference or other similar institutions. Through its athletic programs, the University seeks to unite students, faculty, staff and alumni in a common and shared experience. The Department seeks to contribute to the diversity of the University by offering opportunities for enhanced racial/ethnic, cultural and geographic representation.

To fulfill this mission, the Department, with the approval of the Board of Trust, has developed principles of operation to provide guidance and direction to its personnel. This Mission Statement and accompanying principles require strong dedication and commitment from all who participate in, coach in and support the Department of Athletics.

The University of North Carolina women's soccer program is fortunate to call Fetzer Field its home stadium. In its eighth decade of use as a multi-sport facility, Fetzer Field is one of the premier soccer domains in the nation and has been a site where many signature events in UNC athletic history have taken place over the years.

Fetzer was originally built in 1935 with extensive upgrades taking place from 1988-90. The facility has been host to the NCAA Women's College Cup semifinal and final games seven times in the history of the tournament.

A Fetzer Field record crowd of 7,212, at the time the most to ever see a women's collegiate soccer game, watched the No. 1 Tar Heels fall to No. 4 Notre Dame 1-0 in the 1995 NCAA semifinals.

The largest regular-season crowd in Fetzer

Field lore witnessed the top-ranked Tar Heels' 5-1 victory over second-ranked Notre Dame on September 13, 1998 as 6,024 fans streamed through the Fetzer Field gates.

Large crowds are a regular part of UNC women's soccer history. Carolina led the NCAA in average home attendance five straight years from 1998-2002. Since attendance figures were initially compiled by the NCAA in 1998, Carolina has always ranked in the top five in average home attendance. Carolina ranked second in average home attendance in 2003 and 2004, stood third in the standings in 2005 and 2007, ranked fourth in 2008 and was fifth in 2006.

There is no college team in the country which can compare to UNC when packing a stadium. The Tar Heels played Notre Dame in the NCAA championship game on December 5, 1999 before a crowd of 14,410 in San Jose, Calif.

That is the largest crowd in NCAA women's soccer history. On August 25, 2006, the Tar Heels played Texas A&M before a crowd of 8,204 in College Station, Texas. That marked the largest regular-season crowd to ever watch a game in NCAA women's soccer history.

Given the success of the program it comes as no surprise that the Tar Heels have amassed one of the best home records in collegiate sports history. Carolina enters the 2009 season with a record of 282-12-6 at Fetzer Field. In those 300 home games, Carolina has outscored its foes by 1,229 goals. In those games, UNC has scored 1,372 times and its opponents have tallied 143 goals.

Named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track coach Robert Allison Fetzer, the stadium has been the home of Carolina's soccer programs since 1947, the first year that UNC sponsored a varsity men's team. The women's program was started in 1979 as one of the first varsity women's programs in the nation. Anson Dorrance has been the only head coach of the women's program in that time and only four men have served as the head coach of men's teams in games played at Fetzer Field since 1947.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus directly adjacent to Carmichael Auditorium on South Road, oftimes referred to as Raleigh Road, the playing field, track and grandstand was completed in 1935 as a Works Project Administration program during the administration of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. In the heart of the Great Depression, the building of Fetzer Field provided a plethora of much needed jobs to Tar Heel natives who were then suffering through economic deprivation.

The facility's renovations over the years have made it one of the most beautiful all-around collegiate venues in the nation. Fetzer Field sits in a natural valley in the center of campus surrounded by Carmichael Auditorium, the Michael Hooker UNC intramural fields, the Institute of Government, the Eddie Smith Field House, Henry Stadium, the Navy Field football and lacrosse practice fields,

The All-Time Fetzer Field Record

Heading into the 2009 season, the University of North Carolina has played 300 games at Fetzer Field since the program began in 1979. In those 300 games, Carolina has posted a record of 282-12-6, a winning percentage of .950. In those 300 games, UNC has outscored its opponents by a 1,372-143 margin.

Following is the year-by-year record at Fetzer

Beginning in 1988 and continuing over two years, the playing field itself was reworked and leveled, the grandstand was refitted with new aluminum bleachers, a new track was installed, lights were added, two ticket booths were added to the front gate, a permanent concession stand was erected and a computer scoreboard/message center was installed.

Large crowds have been the rule at Fetzer Field since the inception of the women's program in 1979. The two largest crowds attended Tar Heel matchups against Notre Dame.

The third largest crowd was in attendance for Mia Hamm's collegiate finale, A total of 5,721 fans were on hand at Fetzer Field as Carolina routed George Mason 6-0 in the NCAA title game on November 21, 1993.

Currently Fetzer Field is the home facility for six of Carolina's 28 varsity teams—men's soccer,

McCaskill Soccer Center

The McCaskill Soccer Center on the University of North Carolina campus was dedicated in a gala ceremony on April 11, 1999. Attending the event were members of the Educational Foundation as well as many other University of North Carolina soccer enthusiasts and donors to the building project. Construction on the 6,600-square-foot soccer facility was completed shortly before its dedication.

The McCaskill Soccer Center is located on the same site as the former soccer offices adjacent to Fetzer Field. The old soccer offices were located in a building called the UNC Soccer Hut which dated back to 1935. The new structure honored the entire McCaskill family, long-time supporters of Tar Heel athletics.

The two-story structure accommodates varsity men's and women's soccer locker rooms on the first floor as well as a common team meeting room between the dressing areas. The second floor houses coaches' offices for both sports as well as a large conference room.

Carolina has one of the richest traditions in collegiate soccer, both men and women. The men's team attained varsity status in 1947 under legendary coach Marvin Allen. The Tar Heel men have suffered only one losing season since 1957.

Carolina has appeared in the NCAA Tournament 15 times in the last 22 years. Thirteen of those appearances have come in the last 20 years when Elmar Bolowich has served as head coach. One of the high water marks for the Tar Heel men's team came in 1987 when UNC claimed the ACC championship and advanced to the NCAA semifinals under the direction of coach Anson Dorrance.

Under the auspices of coach Bolowich, the Tar Heel men's team made great strides during the 1999 season, earning the first NCAA bid in five years. The 2000 season was an amazing one for UNC men's soccer as Carolina claimed the ACC championship and advanced to the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals. Carolina went one better in 2001, earning the first NCAA men's soccer chamampionship in school history. UNC also advanced to the NCAA quarterfinals in 2005 and in 2008 the Tar Heels advanced all the way to the NCAA championship game as the tournament's No. 13 seed.

Coach Anson Dorrance's women's teams have comprised one of the most amazing dynasties in college athletics. The Tar Heels have won 20 national championships in the 28 years in which tournaments have been held. The women have an all-time record of 673-33-21. The women have an incredible record of 282-12-6 at Fetzer Field. In 18 of the past 25 years, Carolina has had at least one player chosen National Player of the Year by a soccer organization. Eight Tar Heels were members of the U.S. National Team which won the title at the 1999 Women's World Cup Championship and four played on the 2008 Olympic Team which claimed a gold medal.

"The former 1,200-square-foot soccer office was greatly outdated," said UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour when McCaskill was dedicated. "We've made improvements to a lot of our facilities in recent years and this one was badly needed. That would be the case regardless of the teams' records. We want to give our student-athletes the best chance to succeed and enjoy the experience here. This is a way to help in that regard."

The destruction of the Old UNC Soccer Hut was carried out in 1997. Construction of the new building commenced following the conclusion of the 1997 season. In the meantime, the soccer offices were housed in temporary facilities at Finley Field, the Tar Heels' practice facility near the University golf course. While the new center has over five times more space than the old facility, the expansion occurred without any loss of parking on campus, always a major concern.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Board of Trustees approved the selection of NBBJ Architects of the Research Triangle Park to design the project. Estimated cost of construction was approximately $1.7 million. The project was funded through Athletic Department funds and Educational Foundation gifts. The building was named in honor of Bud and Mildred McCaskill, long-time benefactors of the University.

Together, Fetzer Field and the McCaskill Soccer Center give Carolina two of the best facilities in collegiate soccer.

• The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was the nation's first state university to open its doors and the only public university to award degrees in the 18th century. Authorized by the N.C. Constitution in 1776, the University was chartered by the N.C. General Assembly Dec. 11, 1789, the same year George Washington first was inaugurated as president. The cornerstone was laid for Old East, the nation's first state university building, Oct. 12, 1793. Hinton James, the first student, arrived from Wilmington, N.C., Feb. 12, 1795.

• Now in its third century, Carolina offers bachelor's, master's, doctoral and professional degrees in academic areas critical to North Carolina's future: business, dentistry, education, law, medicine, nursing, public health and social work, among others. Offerings include 71 bachelor's, 107 master's, 74 doctorate and four professional degree programs.

• Through teaching, research and public service, Carolina connects with the people of North Carolina every day in ways that improve lives and build futures. The University is committed to addressing the issues that North Carolinians are concerned most about – such as education, health care and economic development. The University's focus on excellence is to help North Carolina be the best that it can be.

• Among UNC's recent rankings are: First for offering the best combination of top-flight academics and affordable costs (Kiplinger's Personal Finance); Fifth-best public university in the U.S. (U.S. News and World Report); and second among major U.S. universities in the percentage of African American students in the first-year class (The Journal of Blacks in Higher Education)

• Chapel Hill has been ranked the No. 1 most livable small city (less than 1000,000) in America

• Often referred to as "The Southern Part of Heaven," Chapel Hill has been called the perfect college town by several publications, including Sports Illustrated

• The Triangle (Raleigh, Durham and Chapel Hill) has often been cited as one of the nation's top areas in which to live. Residents are within easy driving distance of both beaches and mountains.

Tar Heel Pride

Many of the best-known names in sports – such as Michael Jordan, Julius Peppers, Mia Hamm and Lawrence Taylor – wore Carolina blue.

Carolina: An All-Around Program

- The 2008-09 school year marked the first time in Atlantic Coast Conference history that a member school played in a football bowl game, the men's basketball Final Four and the baseball College World Series in the same season.
- Carolina was one of three schools to have student-athletes selected in the first round of the 2009 NFL, NBA and Major League Baseball drafts.
- North Carolina finished second overall in the 2008-09 Division I Learfield Sports Directors' Cup, a national competition that measures a program's postseason success. It was Carolina's seventh consecutive top-10 finish and the ninth time UNC has been in the top five.
- UNC has won more national championships and conference championships than any other school in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Tar Heel women's lacrosse and men's soccer teams finished as NCAA runners-up in 2008-09.

The Tar Heels have played in the College World Series in each of the last four years.

UNC's 2008 NCAA Women's Soccer Championship was the 20th in program history.

Student-Athlete Services at the University of North Carolina

Advancing Toward Graduation, Building Character,
Developing Leadership

Student-Athlete Services at the University of North Carolina encompass three areas that play an integral part in the collegiate experience of the approximately 700 UNC student-athletes at the University who compete in 28 varsity sports, making Carolina's program the most extensive in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Those three areas are Academic Development, Student-Athlete Development and Leadership Development.

• ACADEMIC DEVELOPMENT

The Academic Support Program is the main service utilized in advancing UNC student-athletes to graduation. The program assists student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals.

"Our young people are students first and athletes second and that will always be the case at the University," says UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "That is a credit to our coaches, our administrators and support staff, but most of all, our student-athletes. Their accomplishments in the classroom are very impressive."

Junior Kristi Eveland was named a first-team ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America as named by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

During the 2008-09 academic year, 274 Carolina student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year.

In the fall of 2008, 173 student-athletes made the Dean's List, and 156 did so in the spring of 2009.

Seven UNC players were named to the 2008 ACC Women's Soccer All-Academic Team led by senior Yael Averbuch who won honors as the ACC Women's Soccer Scholar-Athlete of the Year for the second straight year.

Named to the ACC All-Academic Team were senior Yael Averbuch, senior Anna Rodenbough, junior Kristi Eveland, junior Whitney Engen, sophomore Ali Hawkins, junior Ashlyn Harris and sophomore Meghan Klingenberg.

Carolina players continued their strong representation on the ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America Team in 2008. The team, which is selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America, included senior Yael Averbuch and junior Kristi Eveland on the first team and senior Anna Rodenbough on the second team. Averbuch was named the ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America of the Year, the second Tar Heel in three years to win the award. Heather O'Reilly also won the award in 2006.

The National Soccer Coaches Association of America also named four UNC players to its 2008 NSCAA/adidas Women's Collegiate Scholar All-America Team. Senior Yael Averbuch, senior Anna Rodenbough and senior Whitney Engen were named to the first team while sophomore Ali Hawkins was named to the second team. Averbuch was the NSCAA/adidas Women's Collegiate Scholar Athlete of the Year for 2008, an award Heather O'Reilly also won in 2006.

Senior Yael Averbuch was named both the ESPN The Magazine/College Sports Information Directors of America Academic All-America of the Year and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America Scholar-Athlete of the Year in 2008.

Heather O'Reilly also won the award in 2007. When O'Reilly won the award she was the first Tar Heel athlete in any sport to win the award in 23 years.

Fall 2008 Dean's List Selections (9)

Yael Averbuch, Caroline Boneparth, Rebecca Crabb, Whitney Engen, Kristi Eveland, Ashlyn Harris, Meghan Klingenberg, Anna Rodenbough, Monica Welsh-Loveman

Anna Rodenbough receives congratulations from former Chancellor James Moeser after winning the 2008 Athletic Director's Student-Athlete Award for women's soccer. Rodenbough also won the award in 2007. She won ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America honors three times.

The Academic Support Program is housed primarily in the Pope Academic Support Center, which is equipped with study facilities, tutorial rooms, a computer lab, a 128-seat auditorium, counselors' offices, and state-of-the-art video and computer equipment. At the center, students meet with staff to discuss course selection, major and career exploration, academic progress and academic eligibility.

Brent Blanton, Academic Counselor for Women's Soccer Team

The Academic Support Program helps freshmen transition from high school to college through a variety of academic programs such as academic counseling, individual tutoring, group review sessions and supplemental instruction.

One full-time employee of the Academic Support Program is specifically assigned to work with each team. Brent Blanton serves as the academic advisor for the UNC women's soccer team.

• STUDENT-ATHLETE DEVELOPMENT

Building character in UNC student-athletes is the main charge of Student-Athlete Development.

Through Carolina Outreach, Tar Heels are involved in a variety of projects and organizations on campus and in the community. The UNC Department of Athletics has partnered with Gatorade and the UNC School of Public Health for a national pilot program called Get Kids in Action, in which Tar Heel student-athletes visit local elementary schools to encourage children to exercise. The Carolina Dreams program allows young patients at UNC Children's Hospitals to attend Tar Heel sporting events with UNC student-athletes. Other recent activities have included building a house with Habitat for Humanity, cooking meals at Ronald McDonald House and cleaning up the roadways through the Adopt-a-Highway

• Carolina CREED

As a University of North Carolina student-athlete, I pledge to make every effort to abide by the Carolina CREED as a show of my commitment to the University, the Department of Athletics, my team and myself.

C - I will know and embrace the tradition and culture of this great University and its athletics department

R - I will respect myself and others

E - I will pursue excellence in my academic work by striving to reach my academic potential while preparing for a career of significance

• LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

The primary outlet for Leadership Development is the Carolina Leadership Academy, started at UNC in 2004. As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Carolina Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Academy consists of three programs:

• STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

Under the direction of the UNC Olympic sports strength and conditioning staff, Tar Heel student-athletes get outstanding coaching intended to help maximize their physical potential. The staff evaluates Carolina student-athletes in a variety of ways, including the use of specialized software for lifting and running video analysis, to encourage steady progress toward reaching optimum preparation for competition.

The women's soccer team trains at the Olympic sports weight room in Kenan Field House. In addition to top-of-the-line strength equipment, the center boasts a five-lane, 25-yard rubberized surface for teaching and performing warm-up activities, acceleration drills and agility movements. Year-round training produces athletes who are prepared to compete successfully and safely. Greg Gatz, the Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports, oversees the program along with Steve Gisselman, Assistant Director of Strength and Conditioning. Gatz specifically works with the women's soccer team at Carolina.

CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the freshman year. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore freshmen are taught skills to effectively lead themselves.

Training consists of monthly meetings featuring keynote speakers and small group discussion. Upperclass student-athletes serve as peer mentors and discussion leaders. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices, ethics and character building.

Rising Stars Program

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn and reinforce leadership principles and share successes, frustrations and lessons while preparing for a career of significance.

• SPORTS MEDICINE

The Tar Heels receive excellent care from one of the country's best sports medicine staffs. Dr. Dan Hooker, Interim Director of Sports Medicine, oversees a comprehensive program designed to keep student-athletes healthy and to rehabilitate any injuries quickly and successfully. Dr. Tom Brickner is the physician who works directly with the women's soccer team while Dr. Alex Creighton is the team's orthopedic surgeon.

A member of the athletic training staff is present at all games and practices to ensure that any injuries receive prompt and proper care. Certified athletic trainer Nicole Fava oversees care for the women's soccer team as the head athletic trainer and she is assisted by graduate students Eric Bengston and Amy Fraley.

The Rams Club – A Need for Growth

The cost of competing at the highest level and educating outstanding student-athletes continues to climb. The Rams Club must grow its membership and level of support to keep Carolina as one of the nation's premier athletics programs both athletically and academically.

The Rams Club has witnessed impressive growth over the past several years – 51% of members have joined within the last 10 years. Membership in The Rams Club is available through endowment and annual gifts. Gifts of all sizes are important – 47% of all Annual Fund gifts are between $100 and $1,000. This growth must continue to meet the escalating needs of Carolina's 28 varsity sports and its student-athletes.

As a member of The Rams Club, you provide a vital component to the success of Tar Heel student-athletes. Your membership provides Carolina student-athletes the opportunity to proudly say, "I'm a Tar Heel."

Annual Fund

Donations through the Annual Fund offers The Rams Club the opportunity to meet immediate funding needs—primarily the funds needed to bridge the difference between the endowment's yield and the actual scholarship costs and other important projects for Carolina's student-athletes.

Scholarship Endowment

The Rams Club's Scholarship Endowment Trust is the largest athletic scholarship endowment in the nation. The Scholarship Endowment Trust is built upon gifts from Carolina supporters who have endowed Full or Half Scholarships in support of student-athletes which provide in perpetuity the support to a broad-based athletics program.

Carolina Forver - Planned Giving

As the Rams Club's planned giving program, Carolina Forever offers donors an opportunity to make a lasting impact by involving Carolina Athletics in their estate planning. Carolina Forever's mission is to insure that the university continues to provide in perpetuity the unique opportunity to experience what it means to be a Tar Heel student-athlete in a broad-based athletics program.

Sports Endowments

The Sport Endowments program provides additional funding for the operating budgets of each of the 28 sports. Donors can make gifts to an individual sport with the yield from that trust made available to the appropriate coach for use in budget-enhancing activities like recruiting, team travel, assistant coaches' salaries and more. With the gifts designated into an endowment, these gifts will provide a continuous stream of usable income in perpetuity.

I'M A TAR HEEL

IT'S A FEELING YOU GET when you are in Chapel Hill – a feeling that this is indeed a special place. It's not just brilliant students, or a Nobel Prize winner, or Hall of Fame coaches, or championship teams, or some of the most recognizable athletes in sports. This place is the sum of its parts – parts individually committed to the highest level of excellence in all that they do. It is the University of North Carolina.

It is every person working toward a goal of making themselves better – which in turn makes Carolina, as a team, stronger. It is the personal commitment to wake up at 5:00 a.m. for practice. It is the lone shooter in the gym without the lights or the screaming fans. It is practicing hard day in and day out for the betterment of the team, knowing your jersey may never feel sweat on game day. It is busing back from a road game late at night, only to arise for that early morning mid-term exam ... and making Dean's List. It is an understanding that this is the Carolina Way – and it is what it means to be a Tar Heel.

The Rams Club supports this commitment to the highest level of excellence. Please join our efforts to make this experience possible for Carolina student-athletes. And give them the opportunity to say with pride: I'M A TAR HEEL.

THE RAMS CLUB

I am a student-athlete living and competing in Chapel Hill for just four years, but I am a part of something larger and greater – The Carolina Family – forever.
